"SECOND YEAR OF THE WAR."
By E. A. POLLARD,
Editor of the Richmond Examiner,
AND AUTHOR OF
"FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR."
1 vol., 8vo; 400 pages. Cloth, $2.
WITH PORTRAITS ON STEEL, RECENTLY TAKEN, OF
A. H. STEVENS, GENS. LONGSTREET, HILL, STUART, AND JOHNSTON.
PLANS OF BATTLES.

This volume brings the History of the War, from a Southern view, down to the close of the late invasion, in July, of Pennsylvania.

Written with clearness, independence, and ability, and as the only connected account of all the civil, military, and naval operations in the South, it is of great importance and interest. It gives a thrilling narrative of campaigns, which were filled with interesting incidents and brilliant action.

The first edition of 5,000 copies has been entirely taken up in advance; there ore, the publisher would request the trade to order early.

"FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR."
BY E. A. POLLARD,
Editor Richmond Examiner,
and
R. M. DEWITT,
Editor Richmond Enquirer.
1vol., 8 vo. 400 pp. Cloth, $2.
Authentic portraits, finely executed on steel, from late photographs of
DAVIS, LEE, BEAUREGARD, JACKSON, AND PLANS OF BATTLES.

This is an EXACT REPRINT of the only History of the War published in the South. The value and importance of this connected statement of all civil, military and naval operations, as pictured to Southern readers, cannot be overrated. It is well written, full of details, with many narratives and incidents of personal adventure of the greatest interest.

It contains sketches of Southern Officers, the Constitution of the Confederate States, and a Chronological List of Battles and Events.

"OFFICIAL REPORTS OF BATTLES."
PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF CONGRESS, RICHMOND, VA.

COMPANION TO "POLLARD'S FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR."
One vol., 8vo; 600 pp. Cloth, $2 50.
AUTHENTIC PORTRAIT OF GEN. BEAUREGARD, FINELY EXECUTED ON STEEL.

An exact reprint of the official Confederate Reports of battles, raids and sieges, which are of the greatest interest and importance. They will command the attention of multitudes of readers in all parts who are desirous of knowing the Southern History of the War.

The New-York Times says:

"This is a volume of extraordinary interest, being nothing less than the rebel official statements of battles, for the account of which we have heretofore had to rely upon the reports of our own officers and description of newspaper correspondents."

The whole collection will be found exceedingly valuable as a companion volume of our own Reports on the Conduct of the War; and Mr. RICHARDSON deserves great credit for getting it out in this very convenient and handsome shape.

The above three volumes, bound handsomely in half Morocco, gilt edges, uniform, will be supplied at $12 per set.

A THRILLING BIOGRAPHY OF THE GREAT GENERAL OF THE SOUTH.

AN AUTHENTIC LIFE OF
STONEWALL JACKSON.
LIFE, SERVICES AND CAMPAIGNS OF
STONEWALL JACKSON,
FROM
OFFICIAL PAPERS, CONTEMPORARY NARRATIVES AND PERSONAL ACQUAINTANCE.
BY A VIRGINIAN.
1 vol., 12mo; 325 pp. $1 25. Authentic Portraits of Jackson and his successor Ewell, on Steel.

Stonewall Jackson has made too profound an impression for the public not to devour with avidity an authentic Life. Poor compilations may be gotten up by authors without access to authentic documents, but this is a life written by a Confederate officer, (Hon. John M. Daniels) who knew him well, served under him in his brilliant career, was assisted in the work by Mrs. Jackson, and had access to all his papers. It gives minutely all the details of his campaigns, filled with thrilling incidents and interesting narratives, and is written with great ability, forming a volume of intense and absorbing interest, unequaled by any other yet offered to the public.

It contains the only authentic portrait of JACKSON, taken from life, shortly before the battle of Chancellorsville, for Mrs. JACKSON.

☞ The importance and interesting character of the above works may be inferred from the fact that the publisher is obliged to use every facility to supply the unprecedented demand.

INTERESTING FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

ARRIVAL OF THE MORNING STAR

Important Proclamation of Gen. Banks.

Election for a State Government Under the Amnesty Proclamation.

Proceedings of the Free State Convention.

VERY COLD WEATHER IN THE CITY.

BLOCKADE-RUNNERS AT HAVANA.

The steamship Morning Star, Capt. J. M. COURTNAY, from New-Orleans 12th inst., via Havana the 15th inst., arrived at this port last evening. She experienced very heavy weather on the passage.

The Morning Star was detained at New-Orleans three days by order of Maj.-Gen. BANKS, in order that he might transmit important dispatches to Washington. She was detained at the mouth of the Mississippi River sixteen hours in consequence of a dense fog. She left the Southwest Pass at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 13th inst., and arrived at Havana on the 15th, and left same day for New-York.

The Morning Star left at Havana steamships Eagle, and Corsica, for New-York next day. The blockade-runner Isabel arrived at Havana on the 15th instant. She ran the blockade at Mobile, and had a cargo of 480 bales of cotton, and threw overboard 124 bales off Tortugas in a gale of wind. The blockade-runner schooner Union, with a cargo of cotton from the coast of Florida, also arrived at Havana on the 14th inst. She was chased by the United States gunboat De Soto. The latter vessel was at Havana when the Morning Star left. Several blockade-runners were fitting out at Havana.

The Morning Star passed in the Mississippi River bound up, brig Fanny Foulks, at Southwest Pass; ships Annapolis and E. C. Duncan. Outside the bar, United States steam frigate Colorado at anchor; also, the bark Warren Hallet, from Boston, and the brig Faustina, from Philadelphia.

The weather in New-Orleans for several days prior to the departure of the Morning Star had been exceedingly cold and wet. The trees in the city were crystalised with ice for nearly a week. Heavy frosts are reported in the vicinity of the city and on the coast, and it is thought that the orange trees and ratoon cane had suffered severely, if they are not entirely destroyed. The weather has been colder in Louisiana during the last month than has been known for many years previous.

It was reported at Havana that the steamship Harriet Lane, formerly United States gunboat of that name, had been fitted up at Galveston, Texas, for blockade-running purposes, and was expected at Havana shortly with a full cargo of cotton. The propeller Boston, captured by rebels under JIM DUKE at Pilot Town, a point on the Mississippi River, six or eight months ago, and taken to Mobile, has been made into a gunboat by adding fifty feet to her length and otherwise improved. The rebel agents at Havana were indiscreet enough to admit that she would soon be ready to run the blockade and make an attempt to capture some of the New-Orleans Mail steamships.

Mr. C. H. FARRELL is bearer of dispatches from Maj.-Gen. BANKS to Washington.

We are again indebted to Purser Fuller, of steamship Morning Star, for favors.

OUR NEW-ORLEANS CORRESPONDENCE.

Intensely Cold Weather—Northern Winter in the "Sunny South"—The Free State Convention—Highly Important Proceedings—Brig.-Gen. J. J. Reynolds, New Commander of the Defences of New-Orleans—Army Movements.

From our Special Correspondent.
NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, Jan. 9, 1864.

INTENSELY COLD WEATHER.

It now seems to have been for very wise reasons that—according to Northern papers—the brook trout commenced leaving the small creeks for deep holes as early as September, and the knowing muskrats commenced instinctively walling their little hillock homes, preparatory to a savage Winter. I don't know how you are faring in the North: whether or not capricious Nature is showering upon you our oranges, roses and violets; but most assuredly she is presenting us, just now, with your piercing, biting, frosty weather, that would not disgrace the blue-noses of Canada. Only think of us here, in the "Sunny South," where we have not caught a glimpse of sunshine for four or five days, with our window-panes frosted all over with ice, omnibuses rattling through the streets, with an ornamental fringe of icicles three or four inches long, the trees looking for all the world as if made of white sugar, and people slipping along the pavements upon rain which freezes as it falls.

Such a picture as New-Orleans has presented during the past four or five days, many assert that it never presented before; although I find the old stagers here vary from 15 to 20 years in their estimates of the time since the city last had such an unmerciful visitation of Jack Frost. Certain it is that no Northern person could ever have calculated upon the remotest possibility of ever experiencing such severe weather down here; and although the thermometer does not fall so low as in the North, it is impossible to tell how keenly these hyperborean winds can affect even those most accustomed to the wintry blasts of the North.

Seriously speaking, is there any connection between the advent of the Yankees here and this extraordinary change in Southern temperature? In other words, have the Yankees, to show off their airs—as the Secessionists accuse them of doing—brought their freezing airs of New-England along with them? We all know how national characteristics are often noticed to correspond with certain geographical peculiarities, as, for instance, the love of liberty and home invariably found among those inhabiting mountainous regions; and, then, again, the singular resemblance between the whole American people and the continent they inhabit—both of them extreme in all things. The land, in its heat and cold, its sunshine and storms, its boundless extent, its huge rivers, mountains rocks, prairies and catharacts; the people in their immeasurable impulses, whether it be in greed or liberality, hatred or love, labor or pleasure, peace or war. Without venturing upon any philosophical speculations, it is, to say the least, a strange coincidence that Jack Frost should have selected for so remarkable a visit the very period when Northern ideas have, for the first time, had power to expand in the South; and that people should—many, perhaps, for the first time in their lives—be shaking frost from their feet as they entered the St. Charles Theatre last night, to pass resolutions at the monster Convention that is going to bring Louisiana back as a Free State in the Union. This brings me naturally to

THE FREE-STATE CONVENTION.

The mass meeting of this body which took place on the evening of Friday, Jan. 8, (the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans,) at the St. Charles Theatre, was unquestionably one of the most important ever held in this State, and one whose far-reaching influence will, sooner or later, be felt through the length and breadth of the country. As our local paper will give you full details of it, I need not do more than glance at its character and aims.

The meeting was presided over by that able financier and clear-headed man, the Hon. B. F. FLANDERS, who, in a very short and pertinent speech, explained the objects of the meeting. The gist of the President's remarks, was to show that the martial law, rendered necessary by the outbreak of this rebellion, was not the normal condition contemplated by the Government; that in appointing a Military Governor, the President of the United States had only done what was necessary for the time being, but that now it became the people of Louisiana, of their own free will, to take the necessary steps for organizing a form of Government consistent with the future welfare of the State and the spirit of the times in which we live.

The preamble and resolutions will be found calm, temperate and dignified, but withal full of unmistakable determination of purpose. Starting upon the broad basis of that sublime utterance in the Declaration of Independence, "that all men are created equal—that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights—that among them are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," they boldly affirm that this rebellion is but a vast effort to overthrow that principle; assert the triumph of free government; proclaim the existence of Slavery in Louisiana as "a moral, legal and physical impossibility;" indorse all the acts and proclamations of the President respecting it, especially that of 8th December, 1863, and call upon the Military Governor of the State, Brig.-Gen. GEORGE F. SHEPLEY, to take all necessary steps for having an election at an early day.

Let no one in the North mistake this for the work of a mere factious and impotent minority. The following record of the population represented, and the number of parishes, will go far toward dispelling any such idea:

New-Orleans	176,000	St. John the Baptist	7,930
Ascension	11,484	Lafourche	14,044
Avoyels	12,167	St. Mary	16,814
Assumption	15,379	St. Martin	12,674
St. James	11,499	East Baton Rouge	16,046
Jefferson	15,372	West Baton Rouge	7,212
St. Charles	5,297	De Soto	13,293
Sabine	5,828	Natchitoches	16,699
Plaquemines	8,794	Rapides	25,360
St. Bernard	7,076	Terrebonne	12,991
Total			403,524

This gives us a total of 403,524, more than half the population and territory of Louisiana, according to the census of 1860—a splendid record so far. Nor let it be imagined that because there are other parishes unrepresented up to the present time, that we are to count them as pertinaciously disloyal, and that they will not gladly indorse all that the others are doing, when the leaven of liberty has had an opportunity of working a little more among them. I speak confidently when I say that there are in St. Laudry, Catahoula and other parishes not enumerated above, men as devotedly loyal as are to be found in this city or anywhere in the North.

Take Catahoula, for instance. It was this last-named parish which, at the fatal election three years ago last Wednesday—when New-Orleans proved recreant and sent its Semmeses and Adamses to the Convention—sent there that noble old man TALLIAFERRO, who, by his firm and undaunted loyalty, rebuked in thunder tones alike the madness of some and the cowardice of others who combined to ruin Louisiana; aided by the brave ROZIER, of this place, who stood faithfully by him and wrote his own honorable and immortal record on the journals of that forever infamous assemblage,

NEW COMMANDER OF THE DEFENCES OF NEW-ORLEANS.

Maj.-Gen. J. J. REYNOLDS has just assumed command of the defences of New-Orleans, hitherto conducted by that estimable gentleman and gallant officer, Col. E. G. BECKWITH, since the retirement of Brig.-Gen. EMORY, from ill health.

Gen. REYNOLDS comes to us with brilliant antecedents. He was a graduate of West Point, and, for several years, Professor of Engineering and Natural Sciences at that Military Academy. At the breaking out of the Mexican war he was a Lieutenant of artillery, and attached to the same battery as BRAXTON BRAGG. On the arrival of Gen. TAYLOR's forces on the Rio Grande, Lieut. REYNOLD's was detached from his battery to superintend the construction of Fort Brown and other important works.

At the outbreak of the present war, Gov. MORTON, of Indiana, selected him to organize the troops of that State. He became Colonel of the Tenth Indiana regiment, and was not long after promoted to the rank of Brigadier-General. In the Fall of 1861, he distinguished himself by the skill with which he conducted the Cheat Mountain Campaign, Elkwater, where he manœuvered less than 5,000 men in such a manner, on the night of the 12th September, 1861; as to convey the impression to the enemy—numbering 17,000 men under LEE—that he had a heavy force and was receiving reinforcements. He succeeded so well that LEE—notwithstanding his overwhelming superiority—retreated without giving battle.

One the 3d October, of the same year, he fought the battle of Greenbriar, in which the rebels—although vastly superior in numbers—were worsted with considerable loss, and the campaign ended.

We next find Gen. REYNOLDS fighting under ROSECRANS against BRAGG, and at the great battle of Chickamauga he distinguished himself by his bravery. In Saturday's fight he commanded three divisions of THOMAS' gallant corps, which saved our army. At one time Gen. REYNOLDS' line was cut in two and the road in his rear seized by the enemy, but a vigorous rally, conducted by himself, forced the enemy to retire, and our troops again advancing, recaptured several pieces of artillery. In Sunday's fighting his services were no less distinguished, and at one time, while rallying a portion of his men, he was surrounded by rebel infantry and barely escaped.

On the relief of ROSECRANS, the four corps being consolidated into two, Gen. REYNOLDS remained on duty as chief adviser of Gen. THOMAS, until ordered by the War Department to this station, where he arrived and entered on his duties on Thursday, the 7th of this month.

ARMY MOVEMENTS

in this direction appear to partake of the universal temporary lulls; or if anything of consequence is going on, nothing respecting it reaches us. We must not, however, expect that our armies down here are idle because we hear little of them. It is a trick of this Department to strike telling blows when and where least expected by the enemy, and indeed by ourselves. The General is still here, but I understand is shortly going again to take the field.

NEMO.

PROCLAMATION.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF,
NEW-ORLEANS, Jan. 11, 1864.

To the People of Louisiana:

I. In pursuance of authority vested in me by the President of the United States, and upon consultation with many representative men of different interests, being fully assured that more than a tenth of the population desire the earliest possible restoration of Louisiana to the Union, I invite the loyal citizens of the State qualified to vote in public affairs, as hereinafter prescribed, to assemble in the election precincts designated by law, or at such places as may hereafter be established, on the 22d day of February, 1864, to cast their votes for the election of State officers herein named, viz.: 1. Governor; 2. Lieutenant-Governor; 3. Secretary of State; 4. Treasurer; 5. Attorney-General; 6. Superintendent of Public Instruction; 7. Auditor of Public Account; who shall when elected, for the time being, and until others are appointed by competent authority, constitute the civil government of the State, under the Constitution and laws of Louisiana, except so much of the said Constitution and laws as recognize, regulate, or relate to slavery, which being inconsistent with the present condition of public affairs, and plainly inapplicable to any class of persons now existing within its limits, must be suspended, and they are hereby declared to be inoperative and void. This proceeding is not intended to ignore the right of property existing prior to the rebellion, nor to preclude the claim for compensation of loyal citizens for losses sustained by enlistments or other authorized acts of the Government.

II. The oath of allegiance prescribed by the President's Proclamation, with the condition affixed to the elective franchise by the Constitution of Louisiana, will constitute the qualification of voters in this election. Officers elected by them will be duly installed in their offices on the 4th day of March, 1864.

III. The registration of voters, effected under the direction of the Military Governor and the several Union Associations, not inconsistent with the Proclamation, or other orders of the President, are confirmed and approved.

IV.—In order that the organic law of the State may be made to conform to the will of the people, and harmonize with the spirit of the age, as well as to maintain and preserve the ancient landmarks of civil and religious liberty, an election of delegates to a convention for the revision of the Constitution will be held on the first Monday of April, 1864. The basis of representation, the number of delegates and the details of election will be announced in subsequent orders.

V.—Arrangements will be made for the early election of members of Congress for the State.

VI. The fundamental law of the State is martial law. It is competent and just for the Government to surrender to the people, at the earliest possible moment, so much of military power as may be consistent with the success of military operations; to prepare the way, by prompt and wise measures, for the full restoration of the State to the Union and its power to the people; to restore their ancient and unsurpassed prosperity; to enlarge the scope of agricultural and commercial industry, and to extend and confirm the dominion of rational liberty. It is not within human power to accomplish these results without some sacrifice of individual prejudices and interests. Problems of State, too complicate for the human mind, have been solved by the national cannon. In great civil convulsions, the agony of strife enters the souls of the innocent as well as the guilty. The Government is subject to the law of necessity, and must consult the condition of things, rather than the preferences of men; and if so be that its purposes are just and its measures wise, it has the right to demand that questions of personal interest and opinion shall be subordinate to the public good. When the national existence is at stake, and the liberties of the people in peril, faction is treason.

The methods herein proposed submit the whole question of government directly to the people—first, by the election of executive officers, faithful to the Union, to be followed by a loyal representation in both Houses of Congress—and then by a Convention which will confirm the action of the people, and recognize the principles of freedom in the organic law. This is the wish of the President. The anniversary of WASHINGTON's birth is a fit day for the commencement of so great a work. The immortal Father of his Country was never guided by a more just and benignant spirit than that of his successor in office, the President of the United States. In the hour of our trial let us heed his admonitions!

Louisiana, in the opening of her history, sealed the integrity of the Union by conferring upon its Government the Valley of the Mississippi. In the war for independence upon the sea, she crowned a glorious struggle against the first maritime Power of the world, by a victory unsurpassed in the annals of war. Let her people now announce to the world the coming restoration of the Union, in which the ages that follow us have a deeper interest than our own, by the organization of a free government, and her fame will be immortal!

THE WAR IN WEST VIRGINIA.

The Affairs at Moorfield and Alleghany Junction—Negro Soldiers Employed as the Rebel Reserve.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
DEPARTMENT OF WEST VIRGINIA,
NEW-CREEK, Va., Wednesday, Jan. 13, 1864.

CAPTAIN: A soldier of ours, JAMES A. WALKER, Co. H, Second Maryland regiment, captured in the attack upon the train at the Moorfield and Alleghany Junction on the 3d inst., by the enemy under Gen. FITZHUGH LEE, escaped when near Brooks' Gap on the 5th inst., and reported to me this morning. He informs me that 13 of the enemy were killed and 20 wounded in the skirmish. He also states that there were present under the command of Gen. FITZHUGH LEE, three companies of negro troops, cavalry, armed with carbines. They were not engaged in the attack, but stationed with the reserve. The guards, he reports, openly admitted to the prisoners that they were accompanied by negro soldiers, stating, however, that the North had shown the example.

Faithfully, JAMES A. MULLIGAN, Colonel.

THE WAR IN TENNESSEE.

A Skirmish Near Tazewell—Capture of Gen. Vance.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The following dispatches have been received at headquarters in this city:

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 17, 1864.

Major-Gen. Halleck, General-in-Chief:

On the 14th inst. Gen. VANCE made a raid toward Tenlsville, and captured a train of twenty-three wagons. He was promptly pursued by Col. PALMER, who recaptured the wagons and took one ambulance loaded with medicines, 150 saddle horses and 100 stand of arms. VANCE, his Adjutant-General and Inspector-General are a..ong the prisoners captured.

FROM ST. DOMINGO.

The Capture of Azua—Operations of the Dominican Guerrillas—The Spaniards Defeated in two Battles—The Spanish Prospect Unfavorable.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The Turks' Island Standard, of the 2d inst., has dates from the City of St. Domingo of Dec. 14 and from Puerto Plata to Dec. 26. The capture of Azua by the Spaniards, under GANDARA, is confirmed. But the Standard states that, although it has cost two months of fighting and many lives, its possession is of no great importance to the Spaniards.

A train of eighty mules, laden with ammunition for SANTANA's army, was captured Dec, 9 by the Dominicans.

Twelve hundred Spaniards left St. Domingo City on the 9th to capture St. Christobal, but were harassed terribly by the Dominican guerrillas, and on reaching a defile at River Jaina they were driven back helter-skelter to the city, losing some 200 killed and wounded. The Dominicans still held St. Christobal, thus preventing all land communication with places occupied by the Spaniards.

Some 200 Spaniards, with 300 rifles, 40,000 rounds of cartridges and a field piece, had been captured by the Dominicans at Yabacoa, SANTANA's army supply depot.

The Spaniards are strengthening the fortifications of St. Domingo by two redoubts. SANTANA is near Sangumo, and has lately been reinforced by 1,500 men. But there are more than 700 sick in his camp. He is unable to move his army forward. His position is critical, and it is feared that the Dominicans may inflict a fatal blow on him. Two native regiments have been ordered to be formed in St. Domingo.

A severe battle took place Dec. 20, at Puerto Plata, in which the Spaniards were defeated, with a loss of 150 out of 600. The Dominicans are represented to have fought with great gallantry in this encounter, and captured a cannon.

A rumor that Dominican privateers were cruising near the Island is contradicted by the Standard.

The Standard, in a résumé of the situation of affairs, says: "The sooner Spain withdraws from this dishonorable and unprofitable contest the better. The Spaniards are masters only of the ground they stand upon, and the district through which they fight their way one day is occupied by the Dominicans the next. The Spaniards will find that instead of vanquishing the Dominicans, they will acquire only a cemetery."

Movements of Maj.-Gen. Burnside.

BOSTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

Maj.-Gen. BURNSIDE visited the different branches of the Legislature this afternoon. He was accompanied to the Senate by President FIELD and Speaker BULLOCK, when that body took a recess of 20 minutes, and the General received the congratulations of the members. He subsequently visited the House, where he was received with much enthusiasm, and was introduced by Speaker BULLOCK to the members.

Fire—Five Persons Burned to Death.

THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

Diplomatic Correspondence Submitted to Congress.

Our Foreign Relations During the Past Year.

British Neutrality and French Intervention Discussed.

Views of Our Government on the Mexican Question.

How the Powers of the World Regard Us.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The diplomatic correspondence which has been submitted to Congress, is in printed form, and very voluminous. It commences as far back as November, 1862, and relates to many interesting subjects. The following points are drawn from a hasty glance at the immense volume:

GREAT BRITAIN.

FOREIGN INTERVENTION.

Minister ADAMS, in a letter to Mr. SEWARD, Nov. 15, 1862, having just returned from a conference with Earl RUSSELL on the subject of the proposed Convention of European Powers in relation to American affairs, says it was "friendly and satisfactory," and adds: "It is a little remarkable that, both in England and France, the tendency of public opinion is gradually to fall into the old channels of party divisions. The advocates of strong power side with the rebels, while the more liberal and popular party befriend the cause of the Government. This is becoming more and more visible as the struggle goes on. Efforts are now making here, with a good prospect of success, for a more effective organization of the Anti-Slavery sentiment in our behalf."

Secretary SEWARD, in a dispatch to Minister ADAMS, Nov. 20, 1862, says:

"Congress has come together in, I think, a good, practical and patriotic temper. The President's Message grasps the subject of Slavery earnestly and confidently. It would be unbecoming, even if it were possible, to predict the reception which his bold suggestions of gradual and compensated emancipation will meet. It is something to know—perhaps it is all that can be known now—that the great problem of civil war maintains its importance, and secures the consideration it deserves. While the people hesitate, doubt, and divide upon each new suggestion that is made for the solution of the problem, they no longer shrink from contemplating and studying it. If they seem to the world to be slow in reaching it, the world ought to be reassured of their success by the reflection that no nation ever advanced faster in a task so complicated and so difficult. The great question heretofore has been: Can the Constitution and the Union endure through the trial? There is no longer any ground for despondency on that point. When we compare the military and naval conditions of the country now with what they were when Congress came together a year ago—when we compare the condition of our foreign relations now existing with that which prevailed when Congress assembled a year ago—we see evidences of strength, power and stability, which then it would have seemed presumptuous to expect."

Mr. SEWARD to Minister ADAMS, Dec. 8, 1862, says:

"The President is of the opinion that the dignity of the country and the interests of peace concur in requiring forbearance on the part of the Government from discussing the motives, objects, and legitimate tendency of the late movement of France in regard to our national affairs. I may, perhaps, without departing from this course, inform you that the popular judgment in this country is unanimous in ascribing that proceeding to designs on the part of the Emperor, which are not only hostile, but aggressive. The President does not accept this interpretation, but thinks, on the contrary, that the proceeding was an ill-advised one, founded upon erroneous assumptions in regard to the naval and military condition of the country, and a mistaken desire to counsel in a case where all foreign counsel excites distrust, and must be rejected with firmness. I may add that the determination of Congress and of the people to hold the country in a condition of defence adequate to meet any foreign intervention has been intensified by the appearance of the proposition of M. DROUYN DE LHUYS."

After further discussing the question, the Secretary says in conclusion:

"The whole case may be summed up thus: The United States claim that in this war they are a whole sovereign nation, and entitled to the same respect as such that they accord to Great Britain. Great Britain does not treat them as such a sovereign; and hence all the evils that disturb their intercourse and endanger their friendship. Great Britain justifies her course and perseveres. The United States do not admit the justification, and so they are obliged to complain and stand on their guard. Those in either country who desire to see the two nations remain in this relation are not well advised friends of either of them."

INTERNATIONAL COURTESY.

Mr. SEWARD to Mr. ADAMS March 31, 1863, says:

"Your attendance at the nuptial ceremonies of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and the honors which you paid to the ceremony at the Legation, are approved. The event is regarded by the British nation as contributing a new guaranty of the stability, prosperity and welfare of the United Kingdom. The people of the United States, well wishers to all nations, and cordially friendly, to Great Britain, give their best wishes that that guaranty may prove a substantial and reliable one."

THE ENLISTMENTS OF BRITISH SUBJECTS.

Lord RUSSELL, in reply to a letter from Mr. ADAMS, says:

"The Government of the United States must either proceed on the principle of admitting all British subjects to voluntary service in its ships and military bodies, and then it has no reason to complain that the Confederates do the same; or it must appeal to the Foreign Enlistment Act, and in that case it ought not to encourage in its own practice that which it denounces in the case of the Confederates. The United States cannot ask the British Government to act partially and unfairly. If thousands of British subjects are to be found fighting in the ranks of the Federals, on the invitation of the United States authorities, it is no breach of neutrality that some hundreds should be found in the ships and armies of the Confederates, upon a similar invitation on their part."

To the above Mr. ADAMS replies:

"MY LORD: I am very happy to understand, by the terms of your Lordship's note of the 1st inst., which I did not doubt must have been the fact, that no intention was entertained on the part of Her Majesty's Government to put obstacles in the way of remonstrance on the part of my Government, against the enlistment by parties within this Kingdom of Her Majesty's subjects, for the purpose and with the intent to carry on war against a nation with which she is at peace. It has seemed to me that such proceedings have been and are carried on in violation of the neutrality declared in the present contest, and to that extent become just subjects of complaint on my part. I am not aware that I have ever carried my representations beyond that point."

Mr. ADAMS to Lord RUSSELL, Aug. 22, 1863, writes:

"I have the honor to communicate to your Lordship, under directions from my Government, a copy of a note addressed to Mr. DAYTON, the Minister of the United States at Paris, by the Secretary of State. I am directed to say that this is done solely out of respect to Her Majesty's Government, and for its information, and not from any belief that it has had any purpose or desire to vary from the policy hitherto marked out for itself in regard to the difficulties in the United States. The peculiar circumstances attending the exposition of the views of the Emperor of the French, as made in Parliament during the late session, seem to render it no more than a duty on the part of the President to communicate his opinion that the recent military and naval operations of the United States justify an augmented confidence that the insurrection, if it do not receive new and extensive aid from abroad, must fail. Hence the appearance of an intention to tender such aid at this moment could not but be regarded as more likely to increase existing difficulties than to overcome them. Not doubting that this is also the conviction which continues to regulate the action of Her Majesty's Government, I pray your Lordship to accept the assurances of the highest consideration, with which I have the honor to be, my Lord, your most obedient servant."

BRITISH SHIPBUILDING FOR THE REBELS.

The correspondence consists many letters in relation to the fitting out of the vessels in the British ports to run the blockade, and also protests against the building of Confederate ships, &c., in British waters. On this subject, Mr. SEWARD writes to Mr. ADAMS, Sept. 5, 1863:

"SIR: Your dispatch of Aug. 20 has been submitted to the President. * * * * I have bestowed the most thoughtful consideration upon your suggestions concerning the importance of avoiding collisions with Great Britain. Your observations concerning the importance of more effective measures for arresting the depredations of the piratical vessels seem so sagacious that I have recommended them for the earnest consideration of the Secretary of the Navy. At the same time, you will excuse me for stating the difficulties of enduring, without resort to extreme measures of resistance, the new invasion which is threatened from the ports of Great Britain. The navy understand that although the capacities of the department have been taxed to the utmost for defensive preparations and maintaining the blockade, they neither have now, nor can seasonably have vessels that can be spared from the siege of Charleston, adequate to resist the formidable rams which virtually, with the consent of the British Parliament, are within a few weeks to come forth against us from LAIRD's shipyard. The new vessels which the LAIRDS are preparing must therefore be expected to enter Portland, Boston, New-York, or, if they prefer, must attempt to break the blockade of Charleston, or ascend the Mississippi to New-Orleans. Can the British Government suppose for a moment that such an assault as is thus meditated can be made upon us with British built, armed and manned vessels without at once arousing the whole nation, and making a retaliatory war inevitable? Whatever view may be taken of the fortunes of the insurrection in Europe, it is deemed clear in this country that the factious spirit which gave it birth is rapidly declining, and the sentiment of nationality is developing itself anew, with an energy never known before. The nation, after two years of war, has overcome the sense of fear, while its temper is highly excited. It believes that, though found unprepared, there are no limits to its ultimate ability of self-defence. It has a Press and a Congress, as free and as bold as the Press and the Parliament of Great Britain. You have only to listen to the political debates in any part of the country to learn that the United States would accept an unprovoked foreign war now with more unanimity and cheerfulness than at any former period. I write this with the earnestness of conviction and with all the concern which one must feel who believes that any foreign war must be only inferior, in the danger it brings, to the domestic war, which so many differing from me thought endangered the very existence of my country. I am sure that British statesmen must know that a war between their country and the United States is unnecessary, and that it could bring no resulting benefits to Great Britain. For the interests of both countries and of civilization, I hope no blow will fall from their hands that will render peace impossible."

LETTERS OF MARQUE.

In a dispatch of Feb. 19, 1863, Mr. SEWARD informs Mr. ADAMS that, as to the bill conferring upon the President the power of granting letters of marque and reprisal, the Executive Government will be left at liberty to put it in force in its discretion. He had had little hesitation in saying to Lord LYONS that, if no extreme circumstances occur, there will be entire frankness on the part of the Government in communicating to him upon the subject, so far as to avoid any suspicion on the part of friendly nations, whose commerce or navigation it might be feared should be incidentally and indirectly affected, if it shall be found inexpedient to put the act in force against the insurgents of the United States.

INTERNATIONAL LAW—VIOLATIONS OF NEUTRALITY.

In a letter of Lord RUSSELL to Mr. ADAMS, dated Sept. 11, 1863, the former says:

"It has been the aim of the Government to maintain a strict neutrality between the parties who for two years have carried on a civil war of unusual extent and loss of life on the American continent. Her Majesty's Government have, for the most part, succeeded in this impartial course. If they have been unable to prevent some violations of neutrality on the part of the Queen's subjects, the cause has been that Great Britain is a country which is governed by definite laws, and is not subject to arbitrary will. But law, as you are well aware, is enforced here, as in the United States, by independent Courts of justice which will not admit assertion for proof nor conjecture for certainty. In the United States, as in England, questions of this nature have been discussed by judges of great legal ability, whose learning and impartiality have given weight and authority to their decisions in every part of the civilized world. Her Majesty's Government feel confident that the President of the United States will feel disposed rather to resort to those great expositors of international law, and to be guided rather by a careful examination of the course of Her Majesty's Government, than yield to the hasty conclusions and prejudicial imputations of public clamor."

After further remarks on this subject, Lord RUSSELL concludes by saying:

"I have to add that instructions have been issued for preventing the departure of the iron-clads in question from Liverpool, until satisfactory evidence can be given as to their destination; or, at all events, until the inquiries which are now being prosecuted with a view to obtain such evidence shall have been brought to a conclusion."

In the course of a long reply, Mr. ADAMS says:

"The history of the past two years has proved beyond the possibility of denial, that the insurgents have steadily and persistently engaged transgressing the limit above laid down. They have built ships in the ports of this kingdom with the intent to make war on the United States; they have equipped and armed those ships with the aid of British subjects; they have manned those ships by the enlistment of British subjects; and, without entering any insurgent harbors, they have sailed on the high seas, committing depredations on the property of the people of the United States under protection of the British flag. In advance of this series of proceedings, I have been steadily engaged in making representations of the danger of the same to your Lordship, the correctness of which has been almost uniformly verified by the result."

DETENTION OF LAIRDS' RAMS.

Mr. SEWARD writes to Mr. ADAMS, Sept. 28, 1863:

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your dispatch of the 8th of September, together with the correspondence which took place between the Earl RUSSELL and yourself on the occasion of the decision of Her Majesty's Government to prevent the departure of the iron-clad steamships which have been prepared at Liverpool to make war against the United States.

You are already aware of the considerations affecting the safety of our country which make this proceeding eminently gratifying. There are, however, other circumstances which ought not to be overlooked.

This Government has not been forgetful of the agency of disloyal citizens of the United States in inaugurating the hostile enterprise, and in instigating debates in Parliament and in the press, which have tended to embarrass the British Ministry, and aggravate the responsibility which has devolved upon them. The President, therefore, thinks that he apprehends in some degree the firmness and fidelity to just principles which the Cabinet of London has exercised. Nor does he for a moment doubt that a sincere desire to cultivate the friendship of the United States has had its proper influence in the determination at which the Cabinet has arrived. You will, therefore, specially inform Earl RUSSELL that the Government of the United States will hereafter hold itself obliged, with even more care than heretofore, to endeavor to conduct its intercourse with Great Britain in such a manner that the civil war in which we are unhappily engaged shall, when it comes to its end, leave to neither nation any permanent cause for discontent.

FRANCE.

FRIENDLY RELATIONS.

The correspondence under this head dates as far back as Nov. 30, 1862. Like that with Great Britain, it is exceedingly interesting; but, owing to its length, a few points only can be presented in this condensation.

Minister DAYTON, in a letter to Mr. SEWARD, dated March 30, 1863, informed M. DROUYN DE LHUYS in the same interview that you had written to me that I must give no credit to rumors of alienation between M. MERCIER and our Government, and I read so him, likewise, the kind remarks made by you in the dispatch No. 309, in reference to the relations between France and the United States.

With all this he expressed his gratification, and said that M. MERCIER had likewise informed him that the personal relations between you and himself were entirely kind. This explanation was the more necessary from the fact that the European journals have generally seized upon the alleged contradictions in your and his correspondence, for the purpose of fomenting unpleasant feelings. If the journals of the United States could only be made to understand how much mischief they do to us abroad by exaggerating and harping upon these things, I am sure they would exercise more caution.

THE EMPEROR'S INTENTIONS REGARDING THE SOUTH.

Mr. DAYTON, (Paris, July 30, 1863, in writing to Mr

SEWARD,) says, referring to his interview with M. DROUYN DE LHUYS: "I then called his attention to the fact that the journals of our country were now largely commenting upon the position and purposes of the Emperor in reference to the acknowledgment of the independence of the South, and that certain matters in connection with the conversation between the Emperor and Messrs. ROEBUCK and LINDSAY, as reported by them, were calculated to induce a belief that the Emperor wished to acknowledge the South, and was held back by England only. I further stated that it had been reported from most reliable sources that Baron GROS had said the Emperor would make another proposition to England to act with him in acknowledging the South, and if she would not do it he would act alone. That these matters were calculated to create unpleasant feelings in the United States toward the Imperial Government, and, if not true, I thought it desirable for the interest of both countries that they be corrected. I furthermore asked him directly what was the policy of the Emperor in reference to the South. You will observe that in this way I reached the subject matter without saying I had had any formal instructions from my Government to interrogate France on these questions."

The answer of M. DROUYN DE LHUYS was in substance as follows:

"He said that the Emperor had at no time made any proposition to England to acknowledge the South. That when Messrs. ROEBUCK and LINDSAY came over they pressed him to do so. They said England was ready to acknowledge the South, and would do so if it were not believed that France would refuse to follow. That if he would but say the word, their proposition for acknowledgment (then pending in the House of Commons) would pass at once. He answered that he had given England no cause to believe that he would not act with her, that the only proposition as to any action in our affairs had been made to him by England and been rejected by her. They then urged that he would make the proposition for acknowledgment to England, which he declined to do. They then asked if they might communicate his views. The answer to this was merely that his views on the subject were no secret, but M. DROUYN DE LHUYS says he never dreamed of their attempting to use them, as they afterward did, in the House of Commons. He furthermore told them that he would not act alone upon any important matters either on the continent of America, and more especially would he not act alone in our affairs. As to the remarks of Baron GROS, he would scarcely permit me to furnish the statement as to what they were. He began shaking his head as I went on, and at the close, promptly said, 'Baron GROS never made such remarks. He had never said anything of the kind, official or unofficial, public or private,' as if knowing the views of the Baron on this question. He disclaimed the sentiment for him in the most positive and explicit manner.

In answer to my question as to the policy of the Emperor in reference to the South, he said he had none; he waited on events. This, you may remember, I long since apprised you was, in my judgment, what he was doing, but I confess I began to fear that, unless events mended, he might think that he had waited about long enough. After some other remarks and questions by M. DROUYN DE LHUYS, as to our recent successes, (the importance of which, especially that of Vicksburgh, he seemed fully to appreciate,) our conversation closed.

It appears from the documents that M. DROUYN DE LHUYS sent to M. MERCIER, the Minister to the United States, under date of Sept. 15, 1863, substantially verified the above statements, saying in regard to the recognition of the States of the South, the intentions of the Emperor's Government were known to him, and this question was still at the point where our late conversations had left it. We had not, therefore, recognized the South, and much more, we had not signed with it any treaty for the cession of Louisiana and Texas." On this respect on this, I could repeat to him what I had so often said to him already, that we neither sought, for ourselves or for others, any acquisition in America.

I added, that I trusted that the good sense of the people of the United States would do justice to exaggerations and false suppositions, by the aid of which it was endeavored to mislead and win public opinion; and that I relied on his cooperation in trying to render prevalent a more equitable application of our intentions and of the necessities which our policy obeyed."

THE MEXICAN QUESTION.

In a letter from Mr. SEWARD to Mr. DAYTON, dated Oct. 28, 1863, he explains the President's views in regard to the attitude of France respecting the civil war in the United States, saying among other things,

"We wish to avoid anything calculated to irritate France, or to wound the just pride and proper sensibilities of that spirited nation, and thus to free our claim to her forbearance, in our present political emergency, from any cloud of passion or prejudice. Pursuing this course, the President hopes that the prejudgment of the Emperor against the stability of the Union may the sooner give way to convictions which will modify his course, and bring him back again to the traditional friendship which he found existing between this country and his own, when, in obedience to her voice, he assumed the reins of empire. These desires and purposes do not imply either a fear of French hostility or any neglect of a prudent posture of national self-reliance.

The subject upon which I propose to remark in the second place, is the relation of France toward Mexico. The United States hold, in regard to Mexico, the same principles that they hold in regard to all other nations. They have neither a right or a disposition to intervene by force in the internal affairs of Mexico, whether to establish and maintain a republic or even a domestic Government there, or to overthrow an imperial or a foreign one, if Mexico chooses to establish or accept it. The United States have neither the right nor disposition to intervene, by force, on either side in the lamentable war which is going on between France and Mexico. On the contrary, they practice in regard to Mexico, in every phase of that war, the non-intervention which they require all foreign Powers to observe in regard to the United States. But, notwithstanding this self-restraint, this Government knows full well that the inherent normal opinion of Mexico favors a Government there republican in form and domestic in its organization, in preference to any monarchical institutions to be imposed from abroad. This Government knows, also, that this normal opinion of the people of Mexico resulted largely from the influence of popular opinion in this country, and is continually invigorated by it.

The President believes, moreover, that this popular opinion of the United States is just in itself, and eminently essential to the progress of civilization on the American continent, which civilization it believes, can and will, if left free from European resistance, work harmoniously together with advancing refinement on the other continents. This Government believes that foreign resistance or attempts to control American civilization, must and will fail before the ceaseless and ever-increasing activity of material, moral and political force, which peculiarly belong to the American Continent. Nor do the United States deny that in their opinion their own safety and the cheerful destiny to which they aspire, are ultimately dependent on the continuance of free Republican institutions throughout America. They have submitted these opinions to the Emperor of France on proper occasions, as worthy of his serious considerations, in determining how he would conduct and close what might prove a successful war in Mexico. Nor is it necessary to practice reserve upon the point. What if France should, upon due consideration, determine to adopt a policy in Mexico adverse to the American opinions and sentiments which I have described, that policy would probably scatter seeds which would be fruitful of jealousies, which might ultimately ripen into collision between France and the United States, and other American Republics. An illustration of this danger has occurred already. Political rumor, which is always mischievous, one day ascribes to France a purpose to seize the Rio Grande and West Texas from the United States; another day rumor advises us to look carefully to our safety on the Mississippi; another day we are warned of coalitions to be formed under French patronage between the Regency established in Mexico and the insurgent cabal at Richmond. The President apprehends none of these things. He does not allow himself to be disturbed by suspicions so unjust to France and so unjustifiable to themselves; but he knows also that such suspicions will be entertained more or less extensively by this country, and magnified in other countries equally unfriendly to France and America; and he knows also that it is out of such suspicions that the fatal web of national animosity is most frequently woven. He believes that the Emperor of France must experience desires as earnest as our own for the preservation of that friendship between the two nations which is so full of guarantees of their common prosperity and safety. Thinking this, the President would be wanting in fidelity to France as well as to our own country, if he did not converse with the Emperor with entire sincerity and friendship upon the attitude which France is to assume in regard to Mexico. The statements made to you, M. DROUYN DE LHUYS, concerning the Emperor's intentions, are entirely satisfactory, if we are permitted to assume them as having been authorized to be made by the Emperor, in view of the present condition of affairs in Mexico. It is true, as I have before remarked, that the Emperor's purposes may hereafter change with changing circumstances. We, ourselves, however, are not unobservant of the progress of events at home and abroad; and in no case are we likely to neglect such provision for our own safety, as every sovereign State must be prepared to fall back upon, when nations, with which they have lived in friendship, cease to respect their moral and treaty obligations. Your own discretion will be your guide as to how far and in what way the public interests will be promoted by submitting these views to the consideration of M. DROUYN DE LHUYS.

MR. SEWARD, under date Oct. 23, 1863, replies to a despatch from Minister DAYTON, as follows:

SIR.—I have the honor to acknowledge the reception of your dispatch of the 9th inst., which brings me the views expressed by M. DROUYN DE LHUYS concerning the situation in Mexico. Various considerations have induced the President to avoid taking any part in the speculative debates bearing on that situation which have been carried on in the various capitals of Europe, as well as those of America. A determination to err on the side of strict neutrality, if we err at all, in a war which is carried on between the two nations, with which the United States maintain relations of amity and friendship, was prominent among the considerations to which I have thus referred. The United States, nevertheless, when invited by France or Mexico, cannot omit to express themselves with perfect frankness upon the new incidents as they occur in the progress of that war. M. DROUYN DE LHUYS now speaks of an election which he expects to be held in Mexico, and to result in the choice of His Imperial Highness, the Prince MAXIMILIAN of Austria to be Emperor of Mexico. We learn from other sources that the Prince has declared his willingness to accept the Imperial throne in Mexico on three conditions; viz: 1st. That he shall be called to it by the universal suffrage of the Mexican nation; 2d. That he shall receive indispensable guarantees for the independence and integrity of the proposed empire; 3d. That the head of the family, the Emperor of Austria, shall acquiesce. Referring to these facts, M. DROUYN DE LHUYS intimates that an early acknowledgment of the proposed empire by the United States would be convenient to France, relieving her sooner than might be possible under the circumstances, from her troublesome complications with Mexico. Happily, the French Government has not been left uninformed that, in the opinion of the United States, the permanent establishment of a foreign and monarchical government in Mexico will be found neither easy nor desirable. You will inform M. DROUYN DE LHUYS that this opinion remains unchanged. On the other hand, the United States cannot anticipate the action of Mexico, nor have they the least purpose or desire to interfere in their proceedings, or control or interfere with their free choice, or disturb them in the enjoyment of whatever institution of government they may, in the exercise of an absolute freedom, establish. It is proper, also, that M. DROUYN DE LHUYS should be informed that the United States continue to regard Mexico as the theatre of a war which has not yet ensed in the subversion of the Government long existing there, with which the United States remain in the relation of peace and sincere friendship, and that for this reason the United States are not now at liberty to consider the question of recognizing a Government which, in the further chances of war, may come into its place. The United States, consistently with their principles, can do no otherwise than leave the destinies of Mexico in the keeping of her people, and recognize their sovereignty and independence in whatever form they themselves shall choose that this sovereignty and independence shall be manifested.

Mr. ARROJO, signing himself Under Secretary of State and of Foreign Affairs to the Mexican Empire, addressed, July 20, 1863, a communication to Mr. SEWARD, "to the end that he might be pleased to place within the knowledge of his Government the recent important events which have finally resulted in the organization of an appropriate, strong and durable Government, with the view that the nation might be constituted." He then informs him of what had been done to establish the empire, and the solemn decree as the result of their labors. Consequently, the undersigned (Mr. J. M. ARROJO) relies on the moral coöperation of the Governments which are friendly to Mexico, among which he has the satisfaction of enumerating that of the United States of America, which has given so many proofs of its interest in the happiness of Mexico."

The correspondence with France occupies 131 printed pages; and that, like that with Great Britain, contains subjects of interest not included in the above condensation.

RUSSIA.

The information from Russia is represented to be as heretofore.

Mr. SEWARD, in writing to Chargé d'Affaires BAYARD TAYLOR, says: "She has our friendship in every case, in preference to any other European Power, simply because she always wishes us well, and leaves us to conduct our affairs as we think best."

Mr. TAYLOR, in writing to Mr. SEWARD, Jan. 21, 1863, says: "I have just returned from an interview with Prince GORTSCHAKOFF. 'Tell Mr. SEWARD,' said he, 'that the policy of Russia in regard to the United States is fixed, and will not be changed by the course adopted by any other nation. We greatly desire, as you know, the termination of your unfortunate struggle; but we shall not offer our friendly mediation until it is certain of being accepted by both sides—by the Federal Government and by the Southern States. We earnestly hope for the maintenance of the Union, but at the same time we have no hostility to the Southern people, and, for the sake of both sides, we shall gladly proffer our services when they are mutually requested, but not until then.'

And the Emperor expressed to Minister CLAY, in May last, that he bore in memory the friendly expressions formerly used in regard to the United States, and that nothing would be wanting on his part to make permanent the friendly relations of the past."

NETHERLANDS.

The affairs of the Netherlands are communicated by Minister PIKE. He says, writing to Mr. SEWARD: "The question of the recognition of the Confederate States by the leading Powers, it is now plain, is indefinitely postponed. It seems to be, at last, authoritatively proclaimed that, until the United States desist from their attempt to put down the rebellion, the Great States will not recognize the 'Confederate Government.'"

Mr. SEWARD, writing to Mr. PIKE, Oct. 10, 1863, says: "There are indications that the world's patience toward the utterly vicious insurrection in this country is beginning to fail. I interpret in this way: The report of European opinions you have given to me, concurring as it does with the statements of others of our representatives abroad."

CHINA.

Minister BURLINGAME advises the Government of affairs in the "Celestial Kingdom." He says he has established the most friendly relations with the Chinese Government.

Mr. SEWARD writes to him Sept. 9, 1863: "The policy which you have adopted in the conduct of your difficult and responsible mission is able and wise, and it is also just toward the Chinese Government and people, and liberal toward all other nations It is an occasion of special felicitation that it meets the concurrence of the enlightened Representatives of Great Britain, Russia and France. One may very reasonably fear that the beneficial policy thus agreed upon would fall into disuse if these Ministers, or any of them, should at any time give place to less intelligent and able statesmen. But this consideration does not deter the President from giving it his entire approval; and he sincerely hopes that a successful trial of it, during the residence of those Ministers in China, will render its continuance afterward a cardinal fact in the policy of all the maritime Powers."

SPAIN.

Mr. SEWARD to Charge d' Affaires PERRY, Sept. 3, 1863, says: "The President is pleased with the assurance from the Marquis DE MIRAFLORES that the Government of Spain still adheres to its policy of withholding recognition from the insurgents."

After stating that Mr. PERRY has not erred in bringing to the knowledge of the Marquis the bearing of the present civil war upon the question of Slavery, at home as well as abroad, Mr. SEWARD says:

"The Spanish Government can easily determine for itself whether the continued enjoyment of Cuba with Slavery is more likely to be secured by a recognition of the insurgents, which would be an act hostile to the United States, than it will be secured by the policy of cordial friendship toward the United States, which has induced them for sixty years to respect that occupation themselves, and to insist upon its being respected by all other nations.

The United States Government do not want any more territories—certainly they do not want any more slaveholding territories.

The United States Government is not a forcible propagandist of emancipation even at home, although it does not hesitate to strike Slavery down when it rises in resistance to the Government. Much less is this Government an armed propagandist of emancipation or any other policy in foreign countries. But it certainly could not, if assailed by any foreign Slaveholding Power, show any greater forbearance towards the Slavery maintained by a foreign army than it shows to domestic Slavery when employed by the Government against the insurgents."

AUSTRIA.

Mr. SEWARD, in writing to Mr. MOTLEY, Sept. 26, 1863, says: "The United States are not indifferent to the events which are occurring in Mexico. While the Governments of these two countries are not improperly left in any uncertainty about the sentiments of the United States, the reported relations of a member of the Imperial family of Austria to these events, do not seem sufficient to justify this Government in making any representations on that subject to the Government of the Emperor. This candor and fairness toward the United States, warrant the President in believing, as he firmly does, that His Majesty will not suffer his Government to be engaged in any proceeding hostile or injurious to the United States."

The Secretary thanks Mr. MOTLEY for his interesting summary of the recent movements at Frankfort for the reorganization of the States of Germany, and says: "The United States entertain such cordial sentiments toward the States of Germany, severally, as must forbid any proceedings calculated to embarrass the just action of either of them for its own security and advancement. But this feeling ought not to restrain us from saying that every effort to consolidate all the German States under a federation which would promote the common development and progress of the entire Fatherland would be hailed in this country with profound satisfaction."

PRUSSIA.

The correspondence is brief. Mr. SEWARD to Minister JUDD, Dec. 1, 1862, says: "The President profoundly desires the security and welfare of Prussia, and he therefore earnestly hopes that by wise and just counsels the difficulties which are now threatening the peace of the Kingdom may be averted, without a sacrifice of the liberties of its very enlightened and generous people."

Minister JUDD, writing September 9, 1863, to Mr. SEWARD, says: "The Congress of German Princes at Frankfort has closed its labors. The Austrian scheme has received the sanction of nearly all the Princes, and they have now in a joint letter submitted it to the King of Prussia for his acceptance. It is, however manifest that it will not be accepted, and that the scheme must fail, unless Austria can induce a number of Princes to join it in a separate Confederation, a course which, like secession in the United States, would result in war, and hence it will not be ventured upon."

JAPAN.

The documents are voluminous, detailing the troubles, etc., in that Kingdom.

Under date of Sept. 1, 1863, Minister PRUYN is instructed to demand of the Government of the Tycoon a compliance with treaty stipulations—the prompt payment of a sum sufficient to indemnify all the losses which were sustained by himself and other members of the Legation on the occasion of the firing of his official residence; to demand that diligent efforts be made to discover the incendiaries and bring them to condign punishment; to demand proper and adequate guarantees for his safe return to Yeddo, and the permanent reëstablishment of the Legation there without delay. "Insist on the full observance of the treaties between the United States and Japan in all the particulars which have not been heretofore waived or postponed by this Government, and demand reasonable indemnity, to be fixed by himself, for the injuries which have been sustained by any American citizens from any acts of violence committed against them by Japanese subjects; and he will further demand that diligent efforts be made by the Tycoon's Government to bring the aggressors to justice, and to inflict upon them such punishment as will be calculated to prevent further outrages of the same kind." Mr. PRUYN is authorized to employ the naval force at his command to protect himself, the Legation and others of our countrymen under any circumstances which may occur; and he will inform the Government of the Tycoon that the United States will, as they shall find occasion, send additional forces to maintain the foregoing demands.

Mr. SEWARD, under date of Oct. 3, 1863, writes to Mr. PRUYN:

"Having been advised by your dispatch of the 8th of August, which came from San Francisco by telegraph, that the Tycoon has returned to Yeddo, and that your relations with his Government are much improved, I deem it inexpedient to restrain your discretion at present by special instructions, but cheerfully wait the development of events which must have occurred since that communication was sent."

ROME.

Among the documents is one dated April 4, 1863, in which Minister BLATCHFORD says to Mr. SEWARD:

"His Holiness as well as the Cardinal Secretary are decided friends of the Union, and ardently desire that its integrity may be preserved. The latter was strong in his hopes that the North would speedily subdue the rebellion."

ITALY.

Mr. SEWARD, writing to Minister MARSH, July 25, 1863, says: "The President expects you to express to the Minister of Foreign Affairs the sincere satisfaction of this Government with the answer which was given by him to the proposition of the British Government concerning visits of the insurgent vessels in Italian ports. Their recognition of the insurgents as a belligerent was an unnecessary proceeding on the part of Her Majesty's Government. It has been very injurious to the United States, while it has brought to the British nation itself only troublesome inconvenience, and requires constant efforts to prevent new and more dangerous complications."

Mr. SEWARD writes, Aug. 22, 1863:

"The assurance of Mr. CERUTI of the continued sympathy of his Government for our cause is very gratifying. Italy cannot know how soon the principle of nationality, which we are maintaining, may become important to herself. We are acting on a fixed policy of consideration by all free Governments liable to be assailed by reactionary movements."

BELGIUM.

In a dispatch from Mr. SEWARD to Minister SANFORD, Sept. 28, 1863, he says:

"I have submitted to the President your dispatch of Sept. 4. The representations you have made to His Majesty, as herein expressed, seem to have been discreet and proper, and the liberal and friendly sentiments he expressed in reply are cordially appreciated. If we do not mistake, the civil war is now become so ruinous to those who began it recklessly and without just cause, as to induce anxious consideration about the probable result. This is not submission, nor is it reconciliation, but it is the first stage on the road to peace. As we advance to meet the problem of reconciliation, many of its difficulties, which at a distance seem so serious as to dictate divisions among the friends of the Union, may be expected to disappear. Prudence, therefore, requires that we should not prematurely engage in the discussion of them."

TURKEY.

Minister MORRIS has kept the Government advised in that country. Mr. SEWARD writes to him Sept. 8, 1863: "The circular which you have addressed to American Consuls in Turkey is approved. The Government receives with lively satisfaction the information you have conveyed of a great domestic reform in the administration of customs in the Empire, and you are authorized to congratulate the Sultan."

DENMARK.

Minister WOODS writes to Mr. SEWARD, April 14, 1863: "Since my last dispatch, I have had the pleasure of reading to and hearing with the Minister of Foreign Affairs (Mr. HALL,) the resolutions of the United States Congress on foreign interference. They received his unqualified assent. With these before the world, and an energetic enforcement of the conscription at home, Europe will learn that we are not under the control of the mob, as she has been taught. It now looks as if by another year we can put down the rebellion by starvation, if in no other way."

EGYPT.

Consul-Gen. THAYER writes to Mr. SEWARD that a very marked stimulus has been imparted to the production of cotton in Egypt, in consequence of the continued failure of the supply from America.

Mr. SEWARD says this news is very satisfactory. The President, he says, is gratified with the new evidences which your dispatch brings of the friendized to assure him that in all his enterprises for the improvement of his people and important domain, he has the sympathy and best wishes of the Government of His Highness, the Pacha, and you are authorment and people of the United States.

MEXICO.

Minister CORWIN, it appears from the correspondence, has kept our Government advised of the political and military situation of Mexico.

Under date of August last, Secretary SEWARD writes to him: "The President is inclined to approve the decision you made in declining the invitation of the Mexican Government to leave with it the ancient Capital and repair to San Luis. What would be the most convenient and favorable position for the location with reference to the protection of American rights in Mexico, is a question that depends much on the contingencies of war, which, though they may be imminent, cannot, at least at this distance from the theatre of conflict, be anticipated. It is not perceived how you could effectually assert those interests at the present moment by representatives to the Government at San Luis, which is cut off from all communication with the Legation. While, on the other hand, you will not be expected to address yourself, under the present circumstances, to the new Provisional Government which bears sway at the Capital."

BRAZIL.

Minister WEBB has kept the Government fully advised of affairs in Brazil.

In May last he called the attention of the Brazilian Minister and Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to a gross breach of neutrality, perpetrated and then being perpetrated on the part of the representatives of His Majesty's Government in the ports of Pernambuco and Bahia. The ports of Brazil, he says, are made harbors of refuge and places of resort and departure for these piratical vessels—the Alabama, Georgia, and Florida—avowedly designed to prey upon the commerce of the United States. He asks the Imperial Government to promptly visit upon the offending Governors the punishment they have so richly merited. He shows the right of the United States to demand the capture of the pirate Alabama by Brazil, if possible, as a duty due alike to itself, to the United States, to humanity, and to civilization.

To this the Marquis D'ABRANTIS positively declares the Government of his Majesty is firmly resolved to maintain, and to cause to be respected, the neutrality in the terms in which it was declared it assumed it; and what is important declares that it is not disposed to allow this neutrality to be violated in any way by those interested in the contest, still less by the delegates of the Government itself.

Secretary SEWARD, in a letter to Mr. WEBB, says: "The painful impressions which these transactions have made were alleviated by the extraordinary diligence exercised on your part in bringing the transaction home to the knowledge of the Emperor's Government, and by the prompt, just and friendly proceedings which that Government has adopted.

I forbear from raising the question whether indemnities will be due to the United States for the losses and injuries inflicted upon their citizens, until we shall have received more authentic information of the circumstances which attended the transaction."

CHILI.

The correspondence shows much friendliness between Chili and the United States.

Minister NELSON, in a letter to Secretary SEWARD, January last, narrating a conversation with the Chilian Foreign Secretary, says: "I availed myself of the occasion to assure the Minister of the satisfaction with which my Government had been made aware of the generous sympathy and confidence expressed by Chili in the success of our arms in the present struggle, and reiterated the assurance that the United States never for one moment admitted the possibility of the severance of the Union, or the destruction of the best and wisest Government in the world by the hand of faction."

NEWS FROM JAPAN,

The Status of Foreigners—Request by the Government that They should Remove from Kanagawa—Refusal on the Part of the Foreigners—Falling Off of Trade—Rebellious Acts of One of the Princes.

From Our Own Correspondent.

KANAGAWA, Japan, Sunday, Nov. 1, 1863.

In my last letter I gave you the particulars of the assassination of the French officer, but a mile or so outside the town. His funeral took place the next day, attended by several bands of music and the sea and land forces, with a large concourse of the civilian. The Governor and his staff paid several visits to the French Minister, expressing his regrets each time that any such thing had occurred, and promised the utmost vigilance and efforts of the police to bring the offenders to justice. There seemed to be much fear and apprehension on the part of the Japanese authorities as to what the French Minister and Admiral might do. Our little community of foreigners were all anxious also to know what course would be pursued by them; but, we understand, no steps are to be taken in the matter till it can be referred to the home Government. It may be remembered by some of your readers that last Summer, when the money demands of the English were complied with by the Japanese Government, a demand accompanied it from the spiritual Emperor, to the effect that all foreigners should leave the country in thirty days, to which the representation of the several treaty powers jointly replied that no such proposition would be listened to for a moment, but in the meantime it would be referred to their respective home Governments.

In any other country all must own that such a demand would be nothing less than a declaration of war. But Japan has hardly yet been admitted into the family of nations, and is not held so strictly accountable, at once, for her conduct in her intercourse with civilized countries. She is probably looked upon by the nations of the West as just in that condition of one who is neither a boy nor a man, and "has a great deal to learn."

Since the above-named demand was made, the American Minister, at least, has two or three times written to the Japanese Government on the subject of an early withdrawal of it, advising them, unofficially it may be said, to do so, and not force the Treaty Powers to demand it of them. No very satisfactory answers, however, were received, nor was the subject fairly taken up for serious reconsideration till Monday, the 24th inst. On Sunday, the 25th, Mr. PRUYN and the Dutch Acting Charge d' Affaires were requested by the "Gorogio" (a body of men corresponding in some respects in the Japanese Government to the House of Lords in the English,) to give them an audience at the Castle in Yeddo, as they had some important communications to make. Accordingly they set out by water the next morning for the capital, and, on arriving, were immediately escorted to the audience hall. The interview began, after the usual ceremonies, by the speakers announcing that the edict requiring foreigners to leave the country in thirty days (given, by the way, over three months ago,) was retracted.

A pause here ensued of some length, when he went on to say: "But we wish all foreigners to go to Nagasaki and Hakodadi, (which are at the two extremities of the Japanese Empire,) only abandoning Kanagawa, when they would guarantee trade should go on as before and all the treaty stipulations complied with." He stated at the same time that the opening of the country to trade was only an experiment, and that they were satisfied, after the experience they had had of it for near five years, it would do for Japan. If their request was not complied with there would certainly be civil war in the country.

The question being asked them if they had not the power to put down the threatened rebellion on any other conditions, they answered they were sorry to say they had not. It was then asked why the English, French and other foreign representatives had not also been called to Yeddo to hear so important a communication. They said they made it known first to the American and Dutch representatives because they were the first who came to the country, but that they intended to request an audience with the others in a day or two for the same purpose. Mr. PRUYN then remarked that he thought it in rather bad taste for them to ask him to come to Yeddo in order to tell him and his countrymen to clear out. Whereupon they declared no offence was meant; but in order that he should receive such an important communication in the presence of all the Government officers, it was necessary for him to come there. At the same time, they requested him not to name the subject of the interview to his colleagues, the other Ministers, for fear they might not come when requested to do so. He declined, however, to keep it a secret, and told them frankly he intended, immediately on his return to Kanagawa, to give them the full benefit of his experience, intimating that had he known what they wished to communicate, he would not have been there himself.

The Ambassadors were then named as having been appointed by the Government to make the necessary arrangements for the abandonment of Kanagawa, as if nothing further was to be done. Mr. PRUYN told them he could not listen to any such proposals, and that the only thing he could do was to refer the matter to Washington. They could not see why this was necessary, and wished to know if he could not decide the matter at once,—a strange combination of simplicity and duplicity, diplomacy and presumption. We cannot think they really believe for a moment that there is any possibility of their request being complied with. On the 26th, all the Representatives of the Treaty Powers received a like communication requesting their presence in Yeddo, but being informed as to the subject of the interview, they refused not only to go, but, we understand, refused to listen to any propositions or proposals whatever having reference to the abandonment of any of the ports now open to trade.

Failing in this manner of getting rid of foreign intercourse, we doubt not they will try to starve us out, i. e., by placing restrictions on the production of tea, and especially silk, by preventing their being brought to market. This probably will be the greatest and most effectual way of getting out of the dilemma, provided foreigners, who have had already a taste of the trade developed with the country within the last four and a half years, quietly submit to it. The trade of Kanagawa alone for this year would amount to $10,000,000, if not interfered with. The exports of silk alone would amount to 30,000 bales, which is greater than it was in China after the country had been opened twenty years.

Should the Government not put restrictions on trade itself directly, it is not at all certain but those hostile to foreign intercourse would affect the same end in another way, viz.: by intimidating the producers of the staple articles of exports, and the dealers in them. In fact, if rightly informed, this system has already been commenced—and several of the larger dealers in silk have shut up their establishments here, and gone so far, even, as to tear down their buildings and remove them to Yeddo. The great falling off of the quantity of silk brought into market also indicates that some powerful influence must be brought to bear on the merchants, or they would not so readily sacrifice the profits arising from their heretofore lucrative business. In fact, not half the business is done here now that there was last year at this time. The city Governor of Yeddo has, we understand, again told all the old men, women and children, that if afraid, they might go into the country, but this time they do not see the reason for a general skedaddle—such as was gotten up last Spring. The Japanese Government seems to feel no little fear of the consequences that may follow such warlike declarations as those contained in their late communication to our Minister Notwithstanding, they take the risk, hoping thereby to quiet, it may be, the hostile parties, for a little, by a show of trying to get rid of us, and thus gain time. The Government, as we said before, put our leaving on the ground of a threatened revolution, and, in fact, the revolution has already broken out. There are secessionists in this land of the rising sun, as well as in Dixie. The Prince of Choshu (with whom the United States steamer Wyoming had a brush last Summer,) has taken by force one or two of the Government steamers, flying the Japan flag, as they were passing through the straits he commands, on their way to Nagasaki. He gave as a reason for this act of piracy and rebellion, his having lost three ships by foreigners, (referring to those destroyed by the Wyoming,) and that the Government, not he, should sustain it, because it alone was responsible for their being here at all. The Government says it is making strong efforts, by the aid of some of the other Princes, to punish the offender, and, as he has declared himself hostile not only to foreigners, but to his own Government, it is hoped he may soon be set right again.

THE CASS OF THE EXPRESS.

Hobson Chooses to Testify in Preference to Being Committed for Contempt—Testimony as to Circulation.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS AT CHAMBERS—BEFORE JUDGE CARDOZA.

STEPHEN T. CLARK vs. JAMES BROOKS and ERASTUS BROOKS.—Judge CARDOZO rendered his decision in the matter of examining HOBSON as a witness in the above case. His Honor reviewed the law with care and, in conclusion, said: "I would make an order that the witness attend forthwith and be examined, and that in case he refuses so to do on being served with a copy of this order, or in case he refuses to answer any proper questions, an attachment issue."

Upon the service of this order Mr. HOBSON concluded to answer the question of plaintiff's counsel, and Mr. CRAM proceeded to examine him as follows:

Q.—What is your occupation?

A.—I am a clerk in the office of the Express; I sell the tickets for the paper, or sell the papers. Persons order so many papers, I receive the cash and give checks or tickets.

Q.—What is the daily circulation of the Express now?

A.—I cannot tell what it is exactly; it fluctuates according to the excitement.

Q.—What has been the average daily circulation for a week past.

Mr. MCKEON objected to the question, and asked if that was the main question in the case.

Mr. CRAM.—No sir. I want to show that our property is depreciating in the hands of the Receiver, and I do not consider that you have a right to object.

Mr. CRAM said they wished to show that the Express was going to ruin owing to the course pursued by these defendants.

The Court decided that this was entirely an ex parte matter, and that counsel for the defendants had no right to object to any questions.

Mr. HOBSON answered: I have not made an average; I could not give the exact number; something in the neighborhood of 10,000, being a very quiet week and no excitement.

Q.—How many tokens did you print yesterday?

A.—I don't remember how many.

Q.—Have you not known how many?

A.—I took down the number last night, but do not remember now how many.

Q.—State to the best of your recollection.

A.—I cannot recollect at all.

Q.—Has the circulation been less than 8,000 on some day last week?

A.—No, sir, I don't think it has been less than 9,000.

Q.—State the lowest number of tokens you have printed any day within a month past?

A.—I can't say; I think about 40.

Q.—Explain what a token is?

A.—240 sheets.

Q.—Have you not within a month made and shown a full statement of the circulation from July to October, inclusive, showing a falling off in circulation of 3,000 during this period in 1863, as compared with the same period in 1862?

A.—I positively say that I have not made a statement within a month; I may have stated in common conversation that papers were falling off everywhere; I do not remember having spoken of a falling off of 3,000 copies.

Q.—What was the circulation in 1861?

A.—I have no recollection; I will give it; I have it in the books.

Q.—Have not you printed early in 1861 as many as 35,000 papers a day?

A.—I can't say.

Q.—Were you not in the habit of printing 20,000 or 30,000 copies daily in 1864?

A.—I cannot answer that question, it is so long ago.

Q.—What was the average circulation in the early part of 1863?

A.—I have not made an average.

Q.—Did any one in the office have a better opportunity of knowing than you?

A.—No one.

Q.—Give your best recollection as to January, 1863.

A.—I don't know, but I think about 15,000.

Q.—May it not have been higher?

A.—I can't say.

Q.—How much daily circulation in June, 1863?

A.—It was considerably more than any other month. Question repeated.

A.—I can't tell.

Q.—Was the circulation in the following months as large as it was in June, 1863?

A.—I think not.

Q.—When did it begin to decrease?

A.—I can't tell.

Q.—What is the present circulation of the Weekly Express?

A.—It is not now under my charge, but I believe it is increasing considerably.

Q.—How long have you been in the Express Office?

A.—About eight years.

Q.—State as nearly as you can the average daily circulation in December last.

A.—I do not know. I cannot tell within a thousand or more.

Question repeated.

A.—To the best of my knowledge, about 10,000 or 12,000.

Q.—What was the average in November?

A. I can't say; I have no recollection.

Q.—Did it exceed 9,000 in December last?

A.—Yes, I think so.

Q.—Did it exceed 10,000.

A.—I think it would average more than that. I am not positive.

Q.—Are books kept, in which the daily circulation is entered?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you make a daily report of the circulation?

A.—I do.

Q.—How many did you report yesterday?

A.—I did not report yesterday. Saturday was the last day.

Q.—What was the number in Saturday's report of Friday's daily paper?

A.—I can't say.

Mr. CRAM appealed to the Court against such answers to these questions, claiming that it was extremely improbable that the witness could not remember.

The Court declined to interfere, and after a few more questions the examination of this witness was concluded.

A Card from the Superintendent of Construction of the Kin Kiang.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

It is with some surprise that I notice the communication in your paper signed by Mr. E. M. DICKERSON. In that communication he assumes that the very great speed of the steamer Kin Kiang (and I believe her to be the fastest boat of her length yet built) is due to drawings made by him for the engine of such boat. As the superintendent of construction for the owners of the Kin Kiang, I beg to state that Mr. DICKERSON never made a drawing of any kind for the engine of the Kin Kiang. The speed of the boat is due to the happy accommodation of the various improvements in the engine department and model of her hull, and I give Mr. DICKERSON full credit for his agency in the introduction of the Sickles cut-off which has been used by me, but the merit of speed does not attach to that introduction; it bears its proportion with other improvements, and Mr. D. must not take the share of merit which belongs to others. As well might each man, who has contributed an adopted improvement in steam engines, claim that each new success is entirely the result of his action, and not due, as I have said above, to the proper introduction and accommodation of everything that tends toward the perfection of an engine's working. Let Messrs. SICOR & ENGLIS and others have due credit for the Kin Kiang. She is their work, carried out under my directions and supervision. JOHN BAIRD.

NEW-YORK, Jan. 19, 1864.

Speed of Naval Steamers.

A CARD FROM COMMANDER CRAVEN.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the TIMES of this morning, I observe a letter from Mr. DICKERSON, in which it is assumed that the war steamers of the United States Navy are deficient in speed. Mr. DICKERSON is not correctly informed in this matter; there are many steamers belonging to the Navy, which can steam eleven and twelve knots per hour with ease. The Tuscarora, recently commanded by me, would steam eleven knots with sixty revolutions, and could keep up that rate as long as I wished. I never had occasion to try her maximum speed, but the Engineer believed she could make seventy-five revolutions. The Kearsarge could make thirteen knots, and so with a number of other ships of same class, which could be mentioned if necessary. I may add that in a race with a Spanish squadron of nine vessels, both side-wheel and screw, the Tuscarora beat all but the side-wheel frigate Isabella II.

Respectfully, T. AUGUSTUS CRAVEN,
Com. U. S. N., Commanding U. S. S. Tuscarora.

TUESDAY, Jan. 19—P. M.

The Brokers on the Stock Exchange, who are the largest borrowers at present, found a fair supply of Money to-day, at 7 per cent., but not equal, in all cases, to their wants, owing to the constantly increasing speculation on the railway list. Where resort is had to the double negotiation of borrowing the new Legal-Tender 5 per cents, with accrued interest, the cost of Money is made from 10 to 12 per cent. As remarked yesterday, this difference is not regarded in the speculative movement of the Street which goes up or down 1@2, and not unfrequently 3@5 per cent. per day. This movement appeared to take a fresh impetus to-day, led by Illinois Central Scrip, which rapidly advanced eight per cent. on the first sales after the dividend marked off yesterday afternoon; that is, from 124 to 132 ex-dividend, equal to 136 against 122 last week with the dividend on. The sales at the extreme advance of the Second Board this afternoon were 7,000 shares, and after the breaking up of the Board, we heard of further sales at 133@132½ per cent. In other descriptions on the Railway list, there was a very strong sympathy with this particular Stock; the strongest in Cleveland and Pittsburgh, Michigan Central and Erie. The last named, which was heavily realized on yesterday morning at 109@109½ ex-dividend, and subsequently fell off to 107½ ₩ cent., took a new start and went up at the Second Board to 108¾ for the opening. Hudson and New-York Central were also higher, and some of the light Western shares, such as Northwest, Prairie du Chien and Mississippi and Missouri, were quite buoyant. In Harlem, also, a large business was done, with violent fluctuations since yesterday morning, 101 down to 95, and up to 98@98¾ ₩ cent. The Government Securities, and Border State Stocks, were steady. The Miscellaneous shares quiet, except Pacific Mail, which went up to 226@227 ₩ cent.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made in comparison with Monday night. The speculation in Gold closed about the same as yesterday. The recent advance is supported more by the short sales which were put out while the rise was going on, than by the export demand. These sales have made the cash deliveries difficult for a day or two. The inquiry for Gold to pay Customs continue good. The market for Gold left off 159¼@¾; Exchange for the Boston steamer, 173½ ₩ cent. The Railway list generally closed firm.

The demand for the Popular Loan at the Treasury direct, to-day, was $809,450. The deposits on the same account from the Loan Agents were $504,083—together, $1,313,533. The scarcity of ordinary Legal-Tender to pay in for the Loan is still felt by the Loan Agents and the Banks from which the deposits for this object are drawn. Some heavy subscriptions have been made direct by at the Treasury office, and paid for in the new 5 ₩ cent. Legal-Tender, at their face value, waiving the usual abatement of an eighth ₩ cent., usually allowed by the Government and the Loan Agent to considerable takers. The Sub-Treasurer also continues to find difficulty in getting a sufficient supply of small Legal-Tender to send to the Army Paymasters, &c. This could probably be remedied by the Department—and ought to be by the next periodical payment to the army—by canceling a round sum of the $500s and $1,000s, and printing and preparing for circulation a corresponding amount of fives and tens. New-England Currency is now taken at ¼ ₩ cent. discount, in place of one-tenth, by the Metropolitan Bank. The cause of the change is the scarcity of New-York funds in Boston. The Brokers are now buying New-England Money at ¼@⅜ discount, the same as New-York Country Notes not redeemable in the City.

The following bids were made to-day for the City Bank Shares. The Marine Bank declares a half yearly Dividend of 6 ₩ cent. for Feb. 1:

Corn has been in limited demand, at drooping prices. Sales, since our last, 38,600 bushels, at $1 25@$1 25½, chiefly at $1 25, for Mixed Western, in store and afloat, and $1 21@$1 26 for New Yellow and White Jersey ₩ bushel. Rye continues scarce and quiet, at $1 28@$1 35 for poor to very choice Western and Northern, ₩ bushel. Oats are in moderate request and steady. We quote Canada at 90c.@92c.; Western at 92c.@93c.; State at 90c.@93c.; the latter an extreme; Prince Edward's Island at 90c.; Jersey at 85c.@88c. ₩ bushel. Barley continues in limited demand, at $1 30@$1 50, as extremes, ₩ bushel. Barley Malt at $1 55@$1 65 ₩ bushel.

HAY—North River Bale continues in fair request, at $1 35@$1 65, in large and small lots, ₩ 100 lbs.

HOPS—New are in good demand, at from 25c.@33c., according to quality, ₩ lb.

HEMP.—The principal inquiry has been for Manilla at 13c. ₩ lb.; sales 2,800 bales. American is held very firmly, but is inactive. Messrs. Slater & Virdeu, of St. Louis, speak of the new crop, thus: "The highest estimate we have seen of our own crop in order varies from 30,000 to 35,000 bales. The usual average annual yield has been from 80,000 to 105,000 bales. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1863, to date, (Jan. 7, 1864,) foot up only 55,000 bales against 80,000 bales for the same period in 1862. The stock at present warehoused in this city is stated at from 29,000 to 30,000 bales, five-eighths of which is held in speculative investment; one quarter for farmer's accounts, but not in the market at present, and the remaining one-eighth by factors to be disposed of at discretion. The quality of the present crop of Hemp, so far as we know, is good, and the weather has been all that could be desired for rotting; but that it will be unsulted for shipment in the unpressed or rough state beyond this city is pretty generally conceded. Much of it will be left standing in the fields for want of the requisite labor in preparation for market. The greater portion of the crop will be dressed in this city."

OIL CAKE AND MEAL—Are in request at $47@$53, and $3 40 respectively.

OILS—Have been in moderate request at, in some instances, firmer rates. We quote: Crude Whale, $1 08@$1 12; Crude Sperm, $1 60@$1 65; Bleached Winter Whale at $1 20@$1 25; Unbleached Sperm at $1 85@$1 95; Linseed at $1 46@$1 58; No. 1 Lard at $1 05@$1 12½; City Red at 80c.@85c.; Olive at $1 90@$2 ₩ gallon; and $6 37½@$6 25 and $4 62½@$4 75 for pints and quarts; Crude Petroleum at 32c.@33c.; Refined do. at 55c.@57½c. free, and 47c.@49c. in bond ₩ gallon. Receipts of Petroleum 915 bbls. The week's business in Petroleum, Messrs. Turner & Greives notice thus: "The discussion of the proposed increase to the tax has continued to exert an unsettling influence, but with light receipts and a good home demand, together with a rapid advance in Foreign Exchange, the market closes buoyantly for Refined. Crude is scarcely so firm, and is less sought after; but Refined is in active demand at 47c.@48c. for Light Straw, and 48½c.@49c. for White. Our Petroleum correspondent, under date of Titusville, Jan. 15, reports:

"Oil is coming in quite fast, and the platforms are rapidly filling up. Crude at the wells to-day, $4; on platforms here, $8 50. Refined, in bond, 38c. The daily yield of Oil on the Creek now will hardly reach 4,000 bbls. The roads have been good, and hauling is down to $1 25 ₩ bbl.; but to-day there is an appearance of a thaw."

The following are the receipts at, and the exports from, New-York, of Petroleum, for the week and since Jan. 1:

	For the Week.	Since Jan. 1.
Receipts of Petroleum	6,577	16,220
Exports of Petroleum	3,694	12,916

NEW-BEDFORD MARKET—Week ending Jan. 18.—Sperm—The market for Sperm, although firm, is not very active. The transactions since our last include sales of two parcels—one of 1,000 bbls., and one of 360 bbls.—all at 165c. ₩ gallon, for manufacturing. Whale—The same may be said of the market for Whale as that of Sperm. The sales for the week embrace 500 bbls., at 110c. ₩ gallon, and 1,000 bbls. at a price not transpired.

PRINTING CLOTHS.—The sales in Providence last week were 187,000 pieces, of which 35,000 pieces were to be manufactured. During the week low counts advanced ⅛c. ₩ yard. The following, according to the Journal, were the sales for the week: 1,000 pieces, 56x60, 15½c.; 6,000 do., 56x60, 15¼c.; 6,500 do., 56x60, 15⅛c.; 3,500 do., 56x60, 15c.; 6,000 do., 60x64, 16½c.; 2,000 do., 60x64, 16⅜c.; 40,000 do., 60x64, 17c.; 21,000 do., 60x64, 17¼c.; 30,000 do., 64x64, 17c., early in the week; 36,000 do., 64x64, 17¼c.; 25,000 do., 64x64, 17½c.; 5,000 do., 64x64, 17½c.; heavy, per yard.

PROVISIONS—Pork has been in less demand and heavy, to-day; sales since our last, 2,650 bbls., at $23 for New Mess here; $23@$23 50 for do., deliverable in April and June; $20@$20 12½, chiefly $20, for Mess, last season's packing, here; $19@19 25 for two year old Mess; $23@$26 for Old and New Clear Mess; $18@$20 50 for Thin Mess; $19 50@$22 for Western and City Prime Mess; $16 50@$17 for Sour Mess; $15 50@$17 for Old and New Prime. ₩ bbl. Cut Meats are in good request, at 10¾c.@13c. for Hams, and 7¾c.@9c. for Shoulders, ₩ lb.; sales, 1,000 pkgs., part for future delivery. Bacon has been in fair demand, at 10¾c.@12c., according to quality, ₩ lb.; sales 600 boxes, for immediate and future delivery. Dressed Hogs continue in fair request, at 9¼c.@10¾c., the latter for choice City, ₩ lb. Lard is unaltered; sales 1,650 tcs. and bbls. at 13c.@14c., the latter an extreme rate, for very choice New City, ₩ lb. Beef continues in good request and firm; sales 750 bbls., at $14 75@$16 for Extra Mess, and $12 50@$14 50 for plain Mess ₩ bbl.; Prime Mess, $24 50@$25 50; India Mess, $25 50@$30 ₩ tierce; sales, 370 tierces. Beef Hams $18@$20 ₩ bbl.; sales, 250 bbls. Butter is in good demand to-day, at 22c.@23c. for poor to choice Western, and 27c.@33c. for common to choice State, ₩ lb. Cheese continues in good request, at 13c.@16¾c. ₩ lb.

RICE—A moderate demand prevails for East India, chiefly at from $7 50@$8 ₩ 100 lbs.

SUGARS—Have been in moderate request at full rates. Sales since our last, 275 hhds., including New-Orleans at 13¾c.@14¾c., and Cuba at 12c.@12¾c.; also, 170 boxes Havana, part at 13c.@13¾c. ₩ lb. Refined Sugars are quiet at 13¾c.@17¾c. ₩ lb.

TALLOW—Sales 230,000 lbs., at 12½c.@12¾c.; and 150 pkgs. Grease at 11c.@11½c. ₩ lb. The week's business in Tallow, Messrs. Knight & Sons notice thus: "During the past week the market for all grades has been firm, with a wholesome export demand. On Wednesday the demand was brisk at 12¾c., and some large lots were sold for shipment at 12¾c., although that was an extreme price for that day. On Thursday the market was still firm, with a very good demand, and 12½c. was freely offered for strictly prime in hogsheads and barrels, but very few lots were offered on the market at the current rate. On Friday and Saturday holders were demanding 12¾c. for straight lots, in hogsheads and barrels, of prime quality and in shipping order, which price was obtained for quite large lots on the spot and to arrive within a week and ten days. To-day and yesterday the prices were very firm for all grades, with an upward tendency. The arrivals of Western and Eastern are very light, and the stock of each is light, which two facts tend to keep the market stiff and buoyant. In City Rendered there is not much doing, most of the shippers are buying Eastern and Western to fill their orders. In Grease there is but little doing, as soap makers are not buying, on account of the comparative low price of soap, and what little is selling is for shipment at low figures, viz.: 10c.@10¾c. for good light Grease in bbls., in shipping order. At the close of the market to-day prices were stiff, and holders did not force sales even at the advances, and 12¾c.@12¾c. was freely offered for Prime in hhds. and bbls., but few lots were sold, as most holders were holding for higher rates. We quote as the ruling rates: 12¾c.@12¾c., and extra choice would likely bring 12¾c. Price this day 1858, 10c.; 1859, 10¾c.; 1860, 10¼c.; 1861, 10c.; 1862, 9¾c.; 1863, 11¾."

TEAS—Are in fair demand, and held with much firmness.

TIN—Is in better request at advanced prices, including Straits at 47¾c. ₩ lb.

TOBACCO—Owing to the uncertainty of the tax question, transactions are nearly suspended. Sales 104 hhds. Kentucky, at 14¾c.@17¾d. ₩ lb.

WHISKY—Sales have been made, since our last, of 2,800 bbls., at 90c.@95c., chiefly at 92c.@94c. ₩ gallon.

FREIGHTS—A fair business has been reported today, and rates have been very firm. For Liverpool, the engagements included 2,500 bbls. Flour, at 1s. 3d. @1s. 6d.; 55,000 bushels Wheat, at 4¾d.@5¾d.; 200 bbls. Pork, at 2s.; 350 tcs. Beef, on private terms; 1,750 boxes Bacon, Butter and Cheese, at 11s. 6d.@17s. 6d. by sailing vessel, and 30s.@35s. by steamer; 50 hhds. Tallow, at 11s. 6d. For London, 45,000 bushels Wheat, at 6d.@7d.; 3,100 pkgs. Bacon, Butter and Cheese, at 20s.@22s. 6d. For Bristol, 100 boxes Bacon, at 20s. For Glasgow, 7,000 bushels Wheat, at 7d. For Havre, 630 bbls. refined Petroleum, at 7s. 3d. For Antwerp, 40 casks Ashes and 1,600 boxes Extract of Logwood, at 22s. 6d.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The steamship Morning Star, from New-Orleans Jan. 12, arrived at this port last evening. On the day of her departure a very important proclamation was issued by Gen. Banks, calling for an election of officers for a State Government, to be held on the 22d of February, under the provisions of the Amnesty Proclamation. On the evening of the 9th, a very enthusiastic and numerously attended meeting was held at the St. Charles Theatre, for the purpose of taking steps to organize a State Government. The weather at New-Orleans for a week had been unprecedentedly cold. No army movements are reported.

Gen. Grant telegraphs from Nashville, on the 17th, that the rebel Gen. Vance made a raid to Tazewell, Tenn., on the 14th, and captured twenty-three wagons. He was at once pursued by Col. Palmer, the wagons recaptured, together with one hundred stand of arms, one hundred and fifty prisoners, and Gen. Vance and his staff themselves taken prisoners.

Col. Mulligan, in a dispatch dated at the headquarters of the Department of West Virginia, New-Creek, Jan. 13, says that a soldier of his command who was captured on the 3d inst., by the rebels under Fitzhugh Lee, in their attack upon the train at Moorfield and Alleghany Junction, had escaped after two days' durance. He reports that in the skirmish 13 of the enemy were killed, and 20 wounded, and says that the rebel reserve corps, in part, consisted of three companies of negro cavalry.

Lieut.-Gen. Polk, on assuming command of the rebel army in Mississippi, issued an order, dated at Meridan, Dec. 23, in which he recognizes the defeats and discouragements the Confederate cause has sustained of late, but seeks to stimulate his troops to fresh efforts by assuring them that there is still in the South ample material for a continued and successful prosecution of the war. He does everything in his power to refresh their hatred of the Northern troops, by repeating all the calumnies of the Southern press against them, and reminds them that in case of defeat the South has nothing to expect from the North but "universal confiscation of their property, abject social degradation, or death." "The vigorous employment of our own resources," he closes by saying, "with unity, harmony and an unflinching determination to be true cannot, under God, but crown our efforts with triumphant success."

CONGRESS.

In the House, yesterday, Mr. Stevens reported the Naval Appropriation Bill. The House then took up the resolution explanatory of the Confiscation Act. Mr. Bliss, of Ohio, and Mr. Boutwell, of Massachusetts, each expressed their views on this subject. A conclusion was not reached, when the House, in Committee of the Whole, took up the Internal Revenue Bill. The portion under discussion was the tax on spirits. Mr. Lovejoy favored a tax of $1 per gallon, and Mr. Grinnell, of Iowa, favored a tax of $1 20. Messrs. Wood and Chanler, of New-York, and Stevens, of Pennsylvania, opposed the amendments. Mr. Morrill thought that the proposed tax would be prohibitory. Sixty cents was the utmost rate that could be taxed as a revenue measure. Without coming to any conclusion, the House adjourned.

In the Senate, Mr. Wilkinson introduced a bill to pay a bounty of $100 to all soldiers who enlisted prior to May 1, 1861; resolutions of thanks to Commodore Ringgold and Admiral Dupont were introduced; Mr. Sumner introduced a bill appropriating $40,000 in silver for the settlement of the Peruvian claims. The Senate then took up the resolution requiring Senators to take the oath of allegiance, when Senator Bayard addressed the Senate in opposition thereto. He opposed it, he said, principally because it was unauthorized by the Constitution, and asserted there was no parallel for such a requirement in any English court or legislative body.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, petitions were presented for aid to the Jews' Hospital, New-York; for aid to the Alfred University, and for the reduction of the milk freight on the Harlem Railroad. A variety of bills were noticed, among which one to incorporate the Atlantic Navigation Company, and another to incorporate the Union League Club of New-York. A bill was passed prohibiting enlistments in this State to go to the credit of other States. Resolutions were introduced and laid over calling upon Boards of Supervisors throughout the State to meet in special meeting and ascertain and report the amount of county, city, town and village indebtedness incurred for the war.

In the Assembly, a select committee, composed of Messrs. Pinckney, G. Parker and Bullock, was appointed to inquire into the condition of the soldiers at Riker's Island. Among the matters noticed was a bill to amend the charter of the City of New-York; also, a bill prohibiting the use of dummy-engines on the Hudson River Railroad below Thirty-first street; also, a bill to amend the Metropolitan Police Act, by abolishing the Inspectors of Police.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Board of Aldermen had no quorum at their meeting yesterday, and adjourned to 2 P. M. on Friday.

At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors yesterday, a communication from the Comptroller in answer to a resolution of inquiry, giving a statement of riot claims examined and settled by him, and showing the reductions made from the amounts allowed by this Board, was taken from the table and referred to the Committee on Riot Damage Claims. It appears by this statement that the Comptroller settled twenty-one claims for $7,644 20, after the Committee and the Board had allowed the claimants $9,283 53—a saving of $1,639 23; that 1,363 suits for damages were commenced against the county, of which 416 have been settled, and 949 were pending at the close of last month. A number of claims of policemen for damages were reported by the Committee and allowed by the Board. New Court-house bills for work, amounting to over $40,000, were ordered to be paid. The Board also ordered the publication of their proceedings in the Weekly Courier. Adjourned to Tuesday next, at 3 P. M.

Late advices from St. Domingo report a defeat of the Spaniards by the Dominicans in two recent battles, with considerable loss. The Turks Island Standard says the prospect for the Spanish was bad, and that they only control the ground they stand upon, for the moment that they move forward the Dominicans occupy the country in their rear.

Two bags, containing together $6,700 in gold, was stolen from the Custom-house at Philadelphia on Thursday afternoon last. Mr. Allen, the cashier, had made up a deposit of $21,000 in gold, which was divided among five bags. These bags were placed upon a stool inside the inclosed space occupied by the cashier, and the latter then went in search of the messenger, leaving the assistant cashier at his desk, inside the railing, but with his back to the money. During the few minutes which elapsed before the messenger took charge of the money, two of the bags were spirited away. The loss was not discovered until the messenger reached the mint, where a count of the money disclosed the fact of the robbery.

Telegraphic advices report another snow-storm as prevailing through the West yesterday and day before. At Buffalo the storm was so severe as to interrupt telegraphic communication and railroad travel. No trains departed from Buffalo for either the East or West yesterday.

The Live Stock Markets are fairly supplied with animals this week, beef cattle numbering 4,945 head; veal calves, 401; sheep, 15,394; live hogs, 6,150. The heavy rain injured the Forty-fourth-street trade, and warm weather at this season always acts as a check to laying in a large supply. Beeves sold slowly at a decline of ½c.@ ¾c. ℔ lb. from the prices of last week. A few of the best—not counting several premium bullocks—brought prices equivalent to 13c. ℔ lb. for the dressed fore quarters, while good fat retail steers commanded 12c.@12½c. The average of all sales was only about 10½c., being reduced by large numbers of poor thin cattle. One very choice pair of premium bullocks, owned by Bryan Lawrence, of Centre Market, weighed 6,540 lbs. on the scales at the yards! They were the largest and finest pair ever exhibited in this market; an offer of $1,000 for the pair was refused..... Sheep are plenty, and sell slowly at a decline of fully ½c. ℔ lb. Fat sheep are worth 7½c. ℔ lb. live weight, and extra lots 8c. Large numbers remain unsold..... Live hogs are in light supply, but the prices are too high for quick sales. Prime fat corn-fed hogs are worth 8c.@ 8½c. ℔ lb. live weight.

Business in Flour, Wheat and Cotton was more active yesterday at advanced prices. A good inquiry prevailed for Hay, Hops, Leather, Candles, Chemicals, Fruit, Manila Hemp, Linseed Oil, Petroleum, Tallow, Tin, and Whisky. Provisions were less sought after. Pork was heavy. The freight engagements were to a fair extent.

Gold varied but slightly yesterday, closing at 159½. Money in fair supply. Stocks again buoyant, the excitement running through the Railway list generally. Illinois Central rose eight ℔ cent. on Monday's sales.

Supplies at the South.

There is no rule of evidence better settled than that what a man says against himself, his plans and his prospects, is more worthy of belief than what he says in his own favor. Now and then, it is true, a man may be met who takes too unfavorable a view of his own condition and prospects, but he is a rare bird. And when we find different stories told by men engaged in the same enterprise, we naturally give credit to that one which is most unfavorable.

We find a very marked instance of this difference in what the Richmond papers say about the supply of material which the rebels have on hand. The Richmond Examiner is quite jubilant on the subject. The "supplies of arms and munitions, and military material generally, have increased," it says. "The very heavy losses which were sustained in the disastrous campaign in Mississippi" have been promptly repaired. "In the manufacture of powder, balls, shells, &c., progress has been marked, and, with some addition in the supplies of nitre from foreign sources, it is understood there will be no want of adequate supplies of superior quality."

But the Richmond Whig talks in quite a different strain. The enormous losses of muskets and cannon by Pemberton, added to Bragg's at Chattanooga and Lee's losses of muskets at Gettysburgh and in the retreat, must have left a bare sufficiency of both to supply present needs and to make good the annual wear and tear." It will be seen that the two witnesses differ widely. The Examiner rejoices over the prompt reparation of the losses in Mississippi, but does not allude to those which the Whig mentions in addition—the losses at Chattanooga and Gettysburgh. The testimony of the Whig is clearly the more reliable of the two.

So, too, with regard to ammunition, the Whig says:

"We know what Lee suffered at Gettysburgh for want of it. We know further, that whenever a battle begins, ordnance officers are sure to telegraph for more ammunition. We have never had a superabundance, and since the port of Charleston has been closed, Wilmington almost hermetically sealed, and the nitre beds of Tennessee have been wrested from us, it is not likely that we ever will have more than a full supply for the army on its present footing.

It may be said that we have a whole Winter before us in which to make guns, cannon and powder ad libitum. So we had last Winter, with comparatively open ports through which to draw supplies from abroad. Yet Lee fell short in Pennsylvania, and Richmond was so bare that cartridges had to be taken from the boxes of a portion of the city troops to fill his own with."

But the Examiner thinks there will be "no want of adequate supplies." Yet here again the Examiner lets out a little matter which discredits its statement. It bases its hope, we find, upon "some addition in the supplies of nitre from foreign sources," which it speaks of quite indifferently, and as a matter of course. But the Whig comes in here with a reference to a difficulty in the "foreign sources," to which the Examiner did not allude, viz., that Charleston was closed and Wilmington almost "hermetically sealed." The Whig is clearly more reliable, and the Examiner is pretty clearly drawing upon its imagination for its facts.

The evidence, of which the above is but one item, of the desperate straits into which the rebels are brought, accumulates daily. But we hope that no man will allow himself on this account to slacken one endeavor, to diminish by a hair's breadth his watchfulness, or his determination. The pressure which is thus squeezing the life out of the rebellion must not be relaxed for an instant. It should rather be applied with more strenuous exertion, till its power is not only weakened but destroyed, till the rebel armies are not only scant of provisions and ammunition and clothing, but scattered and broken up, till the currency is mere waste paper and their leaders are refugees and outcasts.

Let the London Times' correspondent at Richmond draw as dreadful a picture as he can of the intensity of the hostility of the Southern people to the old flag and the old Government, and their being converted by further defeat into hundreds of thousands of guerrillas, more wily, and fierce, and implacable than the American savage, he can scare no one on this side of the ocean. We know the Southern people better than that, and we have no fears but that when the contest is ended it will be abandoned, and the people will adapt themselves to their new circumstances easily, for they will be treated with magnanimity and liberality.

But if it should turn out otherwise, we have learned how to take care of the wily savage, and we shall know how to treat the guerrilla.

Reform of the City Government.

We are about to witness another attempt at Albany to mend the City Government, by transferring the election of the Aldermen to the City at large, and the management of the public works, including the street-cleaning, to a commission to be composed, as the Croton Board is, or as the Police Commission is to be. How this scheme will work, if carried out, we have too much regard for our reputation to venture to predict, after having witnessed the failure of so many attempts to make New-York a well-ordered, well-managed place of abode. But appearances are certainly in favor of that portion of the new plan which gives all the citizens the privilege of voting for every Alderman. This will, in the first place, secure candidates who are generally known either for good or evil, and who have some claim to prominence or distinction. The great difficulty with which municipal voters have to contend under the present system is, that men present themselves without hesitation for the suffrages of a Ward, who would not have the hardihood to ask for the votes of the whole City, and who are generally so obscure that nobody except the regular politicians knows anything either of their character or of their antecedents. When the Aldermanic ticket has, however, to be put into everybody's hands, people will not be satisfied with merely Ward busybodies or celebrities, but will insist on having candidates—and will have those who are prominent New-Yorkers—well known to all the inhabitants, just as the Mayor has to be, either for honesty, and capacity and public spirit, or for the reverse. We venture to predict that under this régime the Board of Aldermen, at least, would undergo a great transformation—that the pot-house oracles would disappear from it, and men of more intelligence, better character and social position take their places; though we admit that all this might happen, and the "honorable Board" still remain a very extraordinary and by no means creditable assemblage. By enlarging the area from which any man or body of men is elected, we always secure greater talent and higher character, and we believe the rule applies even to Aldermen. The provision of the new law which makes the Councilmen represent Assembly Districts, is, of course, a desirable change for the same reason, though in a less degree.

The objection made to the Commission of Public Works is, that it would control the City elections; and so it would, if it was able to influence all its employes to vote in the one direction; but if its members were drawn in equal numbers from the two great parties, it would be very unlikely that they would combine any plan of electioneering; and it is, we need hardly say, highly desirable that the power of voting the money, and the power of deciding what it shall be spent upon, should be lodged in different Boards. The experiment is, at all events, worth trying, for it is not possible that it could result in more corruption and swindling than the present system, and it might result in less.

One of the objections made by a Democratic organ to all change or modification of our municipal system on the part of the Legislature is, that what we want is "more local self-government." Self-government, however, is, we believe, like all other government, not an end, but a means. New-York does not insist that it may be governed in a particular way, or by any particular set of people. The problem to be solved is to govern it in some way that will secure health, comfort and prosperity. If "self-government," whatever it may mean, attains this end better than any other kind, we are for self-government. If pugilists, publicans, butchers, ignoramuses of all kinds and callings, are the best rulers for a great commercial capital, by all means let us have them; but if not, not. We want good government, come whence it may. If Albany supplies it, we shall be only too thankful, either by board, or commission, or bureau, or one-man power, or two-men power. We are not particular as to the machinery. We want light taxes, or else an economical, careful and honest expenditure of heavy taxes; a good police, clean streets, and the liberty of finding fault as much as we please; and we have most of us gone through too much by this time to be very solicitous as to the precise form of the organization by which these blessings are conferred on us. All we know is, that while we had pure self-government, we were the worst governed community in Christendom, and only stopped governing ourselves when we found the criminal population getting enrolled en masse in the Police force.

Emigration from the South.—Among the troubles which seem just now to be perplexing the Southern rebels, that of keeping their able-bodied citizens from running away seems to be conspicuous. Gov. Smith, the newly inaugurated Governor of Virginia, thinks it a matter of "concern" to see their citizens seeking to evade military duty, by leaving the country for foreign parts, and he suggests the propriety of refusing passports and of making very stringent laws on the subject. The Confederate authorities will, doubtless, take good care not to go too far in legislating on this delicate subject. They may themselves have occasion to go abroad before long, and may have conscientious scruples about violating the laws of the land even to accomplish the highly important result of saving their own necks. Some action on the subject, however, is fast becoming imperatively necessary.

A Southern Unionist.—Gen. Gantt is doing the cause of the Union good service. Having been one of the prominent Secessionists of Arkansas, from the very outset of the rebellion movement, he is abundantly qualified to speak of the motives and expectations which lay at the bottom of it; and having held a high military command in the rebel army, he understands thoroughly the spirit of the troops and the sentiments of the people in the rebel States.

He has been at Harrisburgh lately and made a speech which contained a good many things of decided interest and importance. He said he had always been a Democrat and at the last election voted for Breckinridge. "The South," he said, "expected aid from the Democrats in the North, but were disappointed. You Democrats talked too much, but did not fulfill your promises; you were too much afraid of your precious lives to rally for the South as you promised us." This was the first disappointment of the Southern Secessionists. The next was in the failure of the Emperor of the French to come to their assistance. "Bonaparte," said Gen. Gantt, "was really expected to act with the South." But they soon found out that he had no intention to assume any of the risks of the contest, though he was quite willing to profit by what he had at the outset no doubt would be its result.

Gen. Gantt has the most perfect confidence in the readiness of the great mass of the people in the rebel States to return to the Union, as soon as the overthrow of the military power will enable them to do so. And he denounces, in the most emphatic terms, those at the North who are constantly throwing obstacles in the way of achieving this result. He avows himself a thorough supporter of the Government in all its measures, and predicts the speedy return of the Southern States without Slavery to the Union.

What Came of a Rebel Laugh.—A domestic insurrection on a very small scale seems to have broken out in Richmond. The irrepressible Foote, formerly of Mississippi, now of Tennessee, who was always in a row of some sort while at Washington, and who does not seem to have changed his habits one whit in this respect by going to Richmond, had a rough and tumble fight on the 6th with Judge Hanley, of Arkansas, Chairman of a committee engaged in the investigation of frauds. It seems that Foote laughed at some of the evidence elicited. Now, laughing may be of different kinds, and may mean very different things; and nothing is more likely to be misconstrued. Judge Hanley did not know exactly what to think of this particular laugh of Foote,—but he took the liberty of remarking to him that he needn't laugh. Foote did not seem obliged to him for the permission, but contented himself by defining his laugh as an "honest laugh at least." Judge Hanley did not quite understand what he meant by that, but he ventured to say that he "doubted it." Thus arose a casus belli—using the word in a military and not in an anatomical sense. Foote "arose and struck" Judge Hanley—to use the graphic phrase of the Examiner. "Both clenched and blows were given and received by both parties." Violent claims were mutually laid to the contending shirt-bosoms: tables were overturned: the recorded evidence was scattered, and one of the Commissaries present was knocked into a corner "like a man of rags"—says the historian, "which he is not." The bystanders observed strict neutrality by seizing the coat-tails of the combatants with rigid impartiality. Both were torn off, and in this bobtailed condition the contest closed. It seems not at all unlikely that the Confederacy itself will ere long present the same appearance and come to a similar end.

The Japan Muddle.—Our letter from Japan gives a clear account of the situation of affairs up to the first of November last. The order for the expulsion of foreigners had been modified to a request to have them remove to Nagasaki and Hakodadi, places at the extremes of the Empire. This request was made at a private audience granted the American and Dutch Ministers at the Capital, Yeddo, and these functionaries at once replied that they should not comply with the request. When the other foreign representatives heard of the demand, they expressed a like decision, and when sent for to come to Yeddo, knowing what the authorities wanted, they declined to go. In the meantime, other efforts are making to drive foreigners from the country. Such restrictions are being placed on the production of, and traffic in tea and silk, that the native merchants are relinquishing the business and removing to Yeddo. The Government says if foreigners do not remove, civil war will certainly ensue, and some of the Princes seem to be seceding and confiscating at will. One of them had seized three Government steamers, while passing through his waters, as indemnity for the loss of those by the U. S. frigate Wyoming, last Summer, on the ground that the Government, not he, should be the loser. The settlement of matters in that benighted country does not look like one of the speedy events of the future.

Terrible Accident.

GIVING WAY OF A BRIDGE ON THE CATAWISSA RAILROAD.

Harrisburgh, Penn., Tuesday, Jan. 19.

News has just been received here of a terrible accident, which happened this morning on the Catawissa Railroad, by which a number of lives were lost, and an entire freight train was dashed to atoms. One of the principal bridges between Summit and Catawissa gave way while the train was passing over the bridge, and the train became a perfect wreck. The accident was caused by the recent heavy rains. Fortunately, the passenger train, which was due about the same time, had passed over to the city in safety.

SECOND DISPATCH.

Philadelphia, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The officers of the Catawissa Railroad Company deny that there has been any accident on their road and say that the report to that effect is a canard.

THIRD DISPATCH.

Philadelphia, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The reported accident on the Catawissa railroad is positively denied in the best-informed circles. There has been no confirmation of it.

Another Fearful Railroad Catastrophe.

Cleveland, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The night express train, west from Buffalo, stuck in the snow three miles east of Painesville, and was run into by the accommodation train. Four cars were burned. Five persons were killed and a number were injured.

The cause of the disaster was as follows: Two men were detailed to watch alternately for the approaching train. The collision occurred while one of them was relieving the other, who had nearly perished from the cold.

Among the killed is Henry Coffin, of New-York. The names of the others have not been ascertained.

The wounded are, Dr. McCabe, of Canton, Ohio; J. B. Stearns; James Gill, of Syracuse; W. F. Enders, of St. Louis; Miles Folsom; John Gladding, of Oregon, Wis.; Catherine Post, of McConnelsville, Ohio; John Gurley, of Claysville, Pa.; B. Curran, of Dunkirk; and a number of others, whose names have not yet been reported.

Superintendent Nottingham, with a relief train from Cleveland, has reached the spot. The wounded are being cared for at hotels and private houses.

Mexican News.

San Francisco, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

Three Mexicans of this city have news from the City of Mexico up to Dec. 24, Orizaba to Dec. 28, and Guadalajara to Jan. 5.

Their accounts say that on the 18th Gen. Dios attacked Orizaba, occupied by the French and traitor Mexicans, and captured the city and garrison by assault. The traitors taken prisoners were all shot.

This is considered an important achievement, as Orizaba commands the French communications with Vera Cruz.

The Franco-Mexican papers published in the City of Mexico abuse Minister Corwin on account of his suppressed sympathy for the Juarez Government. Some Frenchmen and their Mexican sympathizers had charivaried him.

Guadalajara was occupied by the French without opposition, on the 5th of January.

The Mexicans were making all possible efforts to resist the French advance on Cobina, Gen. Uraga having 12,000 men assembled on the road which the French must pass.

Gov. Curtin's Inauguration.

Harrisburgh, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The inauguration of Gov. Curtin took place at noon.

At 11 A. M., the procession was formed, consisting of all the branches of the military service, under command of Gen. Couch.

Following the military, were the Governor elect, the Legislative Committee of Arrangements, the Governor's Staff, the heads of Departments, the veteran soldiers of 1812, clergymen, county officers, Fire Department of Harrisburgh, and the citizens in carriages and on foot.

At the Capitol a salute of 15 guns was fired by the Fifth United States artillery.

The Governor elect was here received by a Committee of the two Houses, and escorted to a platform in front of the Capitol, where he took the oath of office, and delivered his inaugural address.

The Weather at Cincinnati, &c.

Cincinnati, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

There are eight inches of snow on the ground here. The weather is clear this afternoon, and the mercury stands at 27 above zero.

The railroad trains are all behind time to-day, being snow-bound.

The Ohio River is open to Maysville, Ky.

Oswego, N. Y., Tuesday, Jan. 19.

A violent storm of hail and rain prevails here this afternoon, accompanied by most severe lightning. The wind is northeast and a snow-storm appears to be setting in.

Buffalo, Tuesday, Jan. 19—P. M.

The snow-storm continues with a high wind. No trains leave for the East or West before to-morrow. Telegraphic communication is interrupted.

Toronto, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

A fierce snow-storm is prevailing all over the Western Province, and it shows no signs of abating. The railroad trains have stopped.

The Mails per the Africa.

Boston, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The mails per the steamship Africa, for Liverpool via Halifax, will close at 6 o'clock to-morrow (Wednesday) morning, but she will not sail until about 9 o'clock.

The Great Fair and the Police.

The Police, ever active in good and generous works, have held a meeting, at which Inspector Carpenter was Chairman and J. S. McWatters, Secretary, with a view of aiding in the success of the Great Fair to be held in this City, in behalf of the Sanitary Commission. They transacted some preliminary business, and adjourned to meet next Saturday evening. It is understood that all institutions, all societies, all churches, all trades, all professions, all branches of mercantile business, all organizations, literary, charitable, political, and otherwise, will enter into a generous rivalry, in aiding in this Great Fair. It will undoubtedly be the greatest that the world has ever witnessed; it is the intention to make it so from the humblest occupation to the highest. The only difficulty is the securing of a proper location. The Academy of Music will prove altogether too small—and who ever heard of its being called too small before?—and yet where else can the Fair be held? Palace Garden will not furnish room enough. What is to be done to meet the necessities of the occasion? Why, trust to the Committee who will do the best they can, and whose intelligence and energies are lent to the perfecting of this great event.

Funeral of George W. Burridge, Late of Empire Engine Company No. 42.

At a meeting of the Board of Engineers and Foremen of the New-York Fire Department, held on Monday evening last, it was decided that the department should turn out in a body to do honor to the remains of the late George W. Burridge, a member of Empire Engine Company No. 42, who was killed while in the active performance of his duty at the fire in Duane-street on Saturday evening last.

The remains were yesterday morning taken from the Engine-house of No. 42, where they had been since his death, and placed in the large hall of Dr. Chapin's Church, that the friends and members of the Department might have a last look at one who was so dear to them. They were then conveyed to White Plains, where the father of the deceased resides. There the remains are to be placed in their final resting-place.

Court of General Sessions.

BEFORE JUDGE RUSSELL.

Jerry Kehoe, an old man, indicted for manslaughter, in killing Dennis Mahoney, plead guilty to manslaughter in the fourth degree, and was remanded for sentence. This case was that of a stabbing affray growing out of political differences as to the merits of Mr. Morgan Jones as a candidate for Alderman. The parties met in a bar-room at No. 57 Oak-street on Dec. 9 last, and got into an altercation as to what had been done on the previous election day, when the prisoner drew a knife and stabbed the deceased, inflicting a wound from the effects of which he died. After disposing of this case, the Court adjourned.

Supplementary Correspondence.

OUR RELATIONS WITH MEXICO—REBEL VESSELS AT BORDEAUX—TOBACCO AT RICHMOND.

There is a supplement to the Diplomatic correspondence published elsewhere in to-day's Times, in which appears a letter from Minister Dayton to Secretary Seward, dated Nov. 13, saying: "Although the Foreign Department did not go so far as to promise me that all work on these vessels building for the rebels at Bordeaux and Nantes should cease, but only that no armament and no delivery should be had, yet our Consul at Bordeaux writes me that on examination a day or two since, not a man was to be seen employed there. On his prior visits the vessels and the yard itself had been literally alive with men."

The following executive order appears in the documents, a copy of which was inclosed to Minister Dayton.

Executive Mansion, Nov. 10, 1863.

In consideration of peculiar circumstances, and pursuant to the comity deemed to be due to friendly Powers, any tobacco in the United States, belonging to the Government either of France, Austria, or any other State with which this country is at peace, and which tobacco was purchased and paid for by such Government prior to the 4th day of March, 1861, may be exported from any port of the United States, under the supervision and upon the responsibility of naval officers of such Governments, and in conformity to such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of State of the United States, and not otherwise.

(Signed,) ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

SECRETARY SEWARD TO MAJOR-GEN. BANKS.

Department of State, Washington, Nov. 23, 1863.

General: I have received and have submitted to the President your three dispatches of the 6th, 7th and 9th respectively.

I have great pleasure in congratulating you upon your successful landing and occupation upon the Rio Grande, which is all the more gratifying because it was effected at a moment of apparently critical interest in the national cause. You have already found that the confusion arising from civil strife and foreign war in Mexico offers seductions for military enterprise. I have therefore to inform you of the exact condition of our relations toward that Republic at the present time. We are on terms of amity and friendship, and maintaining diplomatic relations with the Republic of Mexico. We regard that country as the theatre of a foreign war mingled with civil strife. In this conflict we take no part, and on the contrary we practice absolute nonintervention and noninterference. In command of the frontier, it will devolve on you, as far as practicable, consistently with your other functions, to prevent aid or supplies be given from the United States to either belligerent. You will defend the United States in Texas against any enemies you may encounter there, whether domestic or foreign; nevertheless, you will not enter any part of Mexico, unless it be temporarily, and then clearly necessary for the protection of your own lives against aggressions from the Mexican border. You can assume no authority in Mexico to protect the citizens of the United States there, much less to redress the wrongs or injuries committed against the United States or their citizens, whether those wrongs or injuries were committed on one side of the border or the other. If Consuls find their positions unsafe on the Mexican side of the border, let them leave the country rather than invoke the protection of your forces. These directions result from the fixed determination of the President to avoid any departure from lawful neutrality, and any unnecessary and unlawful enlargement of the present field of war; but, at the same time, you will be expected so to observe military and political events as they occur in Mexico, and to communicate all that shall be important for this Government to understand concerning them. It is hardly necessary to say that any suggestions you may think proper to give for the guidance of the Government in its relations toward Mexico, will be considered with that profound respect which is always paid to the opinions which you express. In making this communication I have endeavored to avoid entering into the sphere of your military operations and to confine myself simply to that in which you are in contact with the political movements now going on in Mexico.

I am, General, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

Maj.-Gen. N. P. Banks, Commanding the Department of the Gulf, Brownsville, Texas.

MR. SEWARD TO MR. CORWIN—NO. 88.

Department of State, Washington, Dec. 23, 1863.

Sir: Your dispatch of Oct. 26, No. 67, has been received and submitted to the President, and you will accept his grateful acknowledgments for the very interesting information and judicious observations which it contains concerning the present condition of Mexico. In reply to an inquiry contained in your dispatch, I have to inform you that, in the absence of further instructions from this department, you will be expected to remain in the same relations as now toward the Governments of the United States and Mexico. If for any cause your residence in the City of Mexico shall become intolerable or seriously inconvenient, you will be at liberty to report to any other part of the country, or to return to the United States. No contingency is now anticipated in which you will be expected to address yourself to any other Government than the one to which you are accredited.

I give you for your information a copy of an instruction that has been given to Maj.-Gen. Banks since his occupation of Brownsville, Texas.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

Thomas Corwin, Esq., &c.

The entire correspondence covers 1,329 pages. Comparatively a few points have been condensed from the generally interesting pages and embodied in the above hastily prepared abstract.

The Pay of the Metropolitan Police.

There is an impression that a bill has already been introduced in the Assembly for an increase of pay to the Metropolitan Police. This is not so; all that has been done is the giving notice of the bill, and the presentation to the House Committee on Cities of a memorial, adopted by the Force, and asking for an increase on the present pay of twenty-five per cent. Harry D. Whittemore, of the Ninth, and Clark Knapp, of the Fifth Precinct, were appointed the Committee to proceed to Albany and present the memorial. They did visit Albany, and presented the memorial, asking for the increase of 25 per cent., to the Committee, who at once gave them a full and courteous hearing. At the conclusion expressing themselves appreciative of the application. To disprove any idea that may be entertained of "lobbying" on the subject, it is proper to say that the entire department, from the start, have unanimously discountenanced it, and by their delegates, in convention, determined to have nothing whatsoever to do with it, relying solely on the justice of their claim and the cordial testimonials of tax-payers of the City (which have been given to them by thousands) for its success. They appeal to nothing beyond these, and design resorting to no means to secure its passage beyond the plain statement that the present pay is not commensurate with the duties performed, and is inadequate at the present increased cost of living.

The Committee are alone authorized by the department to represent them in Albany, and are entrusted with what duties in the matter it is necessary to perform. They have presented to the heads of the State Departments and to each member of the Legislature, in accordance with a unanimous resolution of the force, a handsomely bound copy of the "Honorable Record" of the Police during Riot Week, and resting on it in part, for the duties performed by and the character and merits of the Force, rely on the almost unanimous approval by our citizens of the application, and on the justice of the Legislature for the rest.

CLARK KNAPP,

The Clergy and the Fair for the Sanitary Commission.

Tuesday, Jan. 19, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Permit me to say in reference to an article in to-day's issue, that I think it is not fair to infer that opposition to fairs, and to the manner in which they are usually conducted, implies opposition to the Sanitary Commission, or any other good object with which these modern contrivances happen to be associated. I claim to have considerable knowledge of the opinions of the class referred to in the article—the clergy; and I do not know a solitary instance of opposition, or even indifference, to the Sanitary Commission and its patriotic and Christian objects. I know many, however, who entertain feelings of profound regret, not to say disgust, at the methods which are taken at "fairs", (as they are called,) to raise money. I share in these feelings, and believe that these methods belittle the object not only, but involve violations of Christian and civil law. Need I go further than the gambling which, under the name of raffling, has become such a prominent feature at these "fairs?" On what principle was the "Art Union" broken up? It violated the laws of the State. If the officers of the law did their duty, might they not, with equal justice, arrest those who are engaged in drawing lots for a costly article (in one instance a Bible—Heaven save the mark!) which is beyond the purse of any single purchaser, but may fall as a prize to the holder of the fortunate lottery ticket.

No, sir. We honor, and more than that, we have helped forward, in various honest and law-abiding methods, the Sanitary and Christian Commissions, but we despise and condemn all meretricious and unlawful methods to aid their funds.

Every Soldier Should Have Them.

From R. B. Heintzelman, Steward Seventy-Second regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers.

"Your medicinal preparation (Brown's Bronchial Troches) is certainly valuable to soldiers in the field, and I feel satisfied, if generally adopted at the hospitals, many sleepless nights of the weary soldier would be averted. Our regiment are now testing their qualities, and I believe are all satisfied with their good effects in alleviating those distressing affections of the throat arising from cold and exposure. They are now daily prescribed in our hospital and at the surgeon's morning call." Sold everywhere at 25 cents per box.

Why be Duped to the Tune of $300 to $1,000 by the barbarous treatment of passing a wire up the nostrils and into the ears, when a box of DURNO'S CATARRH SNUFF will effect a cure of your CATARRH AND OTHER DISEASES OF THE HEAD, at a cost of 25 cents? Sold by all druggists.

Morton's Gold Pens are now sold at the same prices as before the commencement of the war; this is entirely owing to the Manufacturer's improvements in machinery, his present large Retail Business and Cash-in-Advance System; for, until he commenced advertising, his business was done on Credit and strictly with the Trade.

The Morton Gold Pens are the only ones sold at old prices, as the makers of all other gold pens charge the Premium on the Gold, Government Tax, &c.; but Morton has in no case changed his prices, Wholesale or Retail.

Of the great numbers sent by mail to all parts of the world during the past few years, not one in a thousand has failed to reach its destination in safety; showing that the Morton Gold Pen can be obtained by any one, in every part of the world, at the same price, postage only excepted.

Reader, you can have an enduring, always ready, and reliable Gold Pen, exactly adapted to your hand and style of writing, which will do your writing vastly cheaper than Steel Pens; and at the present almost universal High-Pressure Price of everything, you can have a Morton Gold Pen cheaper, in proportion to the labor spent upon it and material used, than any other Gold Pen in the World. If you want one, see "The Pen is Mightier than the Sword," in another column.

Hoyt's Preparations for the Hair and Toilet.—People smile with derisive incredulity on being told that a preparation will restore faded, gray hair and whiskers to their original color and life appearance. Yet this is exactly what is warranted to do. It does not claim to make hair come in where it has once fallen out, but it will prevent it from falling out, make it soft and silky, cleanse it and the scalp from all impurities and humors, and entirely overcome the bad effects of the previous use of preparations containing sulphur, sugar of lead, &c. AGAIN NEW TESTIMONY.
HOYT'S HIAWATHA HAIR RESTORATIVE
READ.
HARLEM, July 30, 1863.
I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

TESTIMONIAL FROM ONE OF THE MOST RESPECTABLE CITIZENS OF NEW-YORK.
DEAFNESS AND CATARRH CURED.
No. 420 SIXTH-AV., NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1863.
I was deaf for several years, and hearing of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I was induced to place myself under his care, and I am now happy to state that my hearing was entirely restored after a short treatment. I was also suffering from chronic catarrh, of which I was also cured by the skillful treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I do but justice to the Doctor in stating that in treating me he displayed that skill and knowledge which have already procured for him such a deserved reputation, and that the principles which direct his system of curing Deafness and Catarrh are such as to render success certain, in my opinion. Many months have passed since Dr. Von Eisenberg restored my hearing, and it continues as good as ever.
O. HOPKINS.

CATARRH CURED.
NEW-YORK, Aug. 23, 1863.
I have been suffering for the last three years from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I have had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting, often with a fullness of my throat, together with a soreness and a dropping. Dr. VON EISENBERG has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I now feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. VON EISENBERG is as skillful as it is successful; it is impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S care, with a certainty of being speedily cured. I give this with gratitude and pleasure. I cannot forbear again saying that my voice, which was hoarse and thick when I applied to Dr. VON EISENBERG, is now clear and good; indeed, I feel abundantly satisfied.
JAMES LITTLE,
No. 245 7th-st., New-York.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 3.
I have been suffering for years past from a severe Catarrh, with a great heaviness over my eyes, with a severe depression, great uneasiness, and pain in my head, great difficulty in breathing, and a continual accumulation in my nostrils, which gave me restless nights for several years. I have consulted several physicians, who pronounced me to be consumptive. What I suffered for so long a time is indescribable. My system was entirely disarranged and greatly debilitated. I not only felt weak, but I had a cloud continually before my eyes, and my ears were so affected that I was threatened with a total loss of hearing. I must say, I think, I was guided by Providence to come to Dr. Von Eisenberg, who not only cured me of my Catarrh by removing an astonishing quantity of disagreeable matter from my head, but he restored me to perfect health, a blessing I have not enjoyed for many years. Now I enjoy a good night's rest, and pursue my business with comfort. I must acknowledge that Dr. Von Eisenberg's mild and scientific treatment for Catarrh deserves the highest commendation, as the principle which directs his system of curing Catarrh is such as to render success certain.
JAMES FURLONG, No. 556 23-av.

No. 134 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.
I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.
I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain. JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 29, 1863.
This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ.
NEW-YORK, March 26, 1862.
"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

GLAD NEWS FOR THE UNFORTUNATE!
THE LONG SOUGHT FOR DISCOVERED AT LAST.
CHEROKEE REMEDY
AND
CHEROKEE INJECTION!
COMPOUNDED FROM ROOTS, BARKS AND LEAVES.
CHEROKEE REMEDY, the great Indian Diuretic, cures all diseases of the Urinary Organs, such as Incontinence of the Urine, Inflammation of the Bladder, Inflammation of the Kidneys, Stone in the Bladder, Stricture, Gravel, Gleet, &c., and is especially recommended in those cases of Fluor Albus (or Whites in Females) where all the old nauseous medicines have failed.
It is prepared in a highly concentrated form, the dose only being from one to two teaspoonfuls, three times per day.
It is diuretic and alterative in its action; Purifying and cleansing the blood, causing it to flow in all its original purity and vigor—thus removing from the system all pernicious causes which have induced disease.
CHEROKEE INJECTION is intended as an ally or assistant to the CHEROKEE REMEDY, and should be used in conjunction with that medicine in all cases of Gleet, Fluor Albus or Whites. Its effects are healing, soothing, and demulcent; removing all scalding, heat, chordee and pain, instead of the burning and almost unendurable pain that is experienced with nearly all the cheap quack Injections.
By the use of the CHEROKEE REMEDY and CHEROKEE INJECTION—the two medicines at the same time—all improper discharges are removed, and the weakened organs are speedily restored to full vigor and strength.
☞ For full particulars get our pamphlet from any druggists in the country, or write us, and we will mail free to any address a full treatise.

Consumption has destroyed more of the human family than any other disease, and the best physicians for many years have despaired of a cure, or a remedy that would heal the lungs; but for more than two hundred years the whole medical world has been impressed that there was a mysterious power and efficiency in the Pine Tree Tar to heal the lungs; therefore they have recommended the use of Tar Water, which in many cases has a good effect; but how to combine its medical properties so as to heal the lungs, has ever been a mystery until it was discovered by Dr. L. Q. C. WISHART, of Philadelphia, Penn., the proprietor of Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, and has been put in bottles, patented by the United States Government. We say to the afflicted that Dr. WISHART'S Pine Tree Tar Cordial will produce the INVIGORATION OF THE DIGESTIVE ORGANS, THE STRENGTHENING OF THE DEBILITATED SYSTEM, THE PURIFICATION AND ENRICHMENT OF THE BLOOD, which must expel from the system the corruption which scrofula breeds. While this is effected by the powerful alterative (changing from disease to health) properties of the Tar Cordial, its healing and renovating principle is also acting upon the irritated surfaces of the lungs and throat, penetrating to each diseased part, relieving the pain, subduing inflammation and restoring a healthful tendency. Let this two-fold power, the healing and the strengthening, continue to act in conjunction with nature's constant recuperative tendency, and the patient is saved, if he has not too long delayed to resort to the means of cure.

SALE OF SIX PER CENT. STATE BONDS.

SECRETARY OF CONNECTICUT, TREASURY OFFICE, HARTFORD, Jan. 13, 1864.

Sealed proposals for the purchase of $2,000,000 of the Bonds of the State of Connecticut will be received at the office of the Treasurer in Hartford until the 23d day of January, 1864, at which time said proposals will be opened in the presence of such bidders as choose to attend, and the Bonds awarded to the highest bidders.

Each proposal must be accompanied with a certificate of deposit or certified check on any solvent bank in the State of Connecticut or Massachusetts, or the City of New-York, equal to five per cent. of the amount described, to be held as security for the faithful fulfillment of the bid, and returned to the owners on their order.

It is expected that no bid can be accepted at less than the par value of the Bonds, and full payment in funds current in New-York and Boston will be required within five days after notice of acceptance.

The Bonds are dated January 1st, 1864, and payable in twenty years from date at the Treasurer's Office, with six per cent. coupons attached, payable at the same place, in January and July of each year, or, if preferred by the purchaser, Certificates of the Loan will be issued, provided not less than $200,000 of the full issue are desired.

A sinking fund of 440,000 is specially established, and the faith and credit of the State pledged for the redemption of the above-mentioned Bonds, the sale of which is authorized by Act of the General Assembly, passed at their special session and approved January 11, 1864.

CHICAGO AND GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY,
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,
FOR $2,000,000.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED WITH Messrs. SCHUCHARDT & GEBHARD, Bankers, No. 24 Nassau-st., New-York.

The Chicago and Great Eastern Railway Company now offer for sale one million one hundred thousand dollars of their first mortgage bonds, in sums of one thousand dollars each, maturing in thirty years, bearing interest at the rate of Seven per cent. per annum, payable in the City of New-York, on the first days of April and October, in each year.

These bonds are secured by a first and only Mortgage on the property, income and franchises of the Railway Company, executed to Frederick Schuchardt and Henry Morgan, of the City of New-York, Trustees.

The remaining nine hundred thousand dollars of the Bonds are set apart and remain in the hands of the said Trustees, for the purpose of being exchanged for the indebtedness of the Chicago and Cincinnati Railroad Company, running from La Crosse to Logansport; this effected, the $2,000,000 will form a first and only mortgage on a line of road 110 miles in length, extending from Chicago to Logansport, where it connects with the Cincinnati and Chicago Air-line Railroad, forming the shortest line by 40 miles, between Chicago and Cincinnati, and by 36 miles the shortest line between Louisville and Chicago.

It will also open, in connection with roads now in operation, entirely new and very direct lines from Chicago to New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and all Eastern Cities. The distance between Chicago and New-York by this route being shorter than by either of the existing lines via Dunkirk or Buffalo.

The road is now under contract, and the most strenuous efforts are being made to have it open for traffic during the Summer of 1864.

The interest on the Bonds maturing during the progress of the work has been provided for, and will remain on deposit with the Bankers, Messrs. SCHUCHARDT & GEBHARD, No. 24 Nassau-st., to whom the subscription books for this loan have been opened.

U. S. 5-20 LOAN.

We beg to call attention to the comparatively small amount of Five-Twenty Bonds remaining unsold, now less than thirty-four millions, and would suggest the importance of subscriptions being sent to as forth with, as the residue is liable at any moment to be exhausted, after which they will not be obtainable except at a premium.

The demand occasioned by the formation of new Banks, as well as for foreign account, is daily increasing.

We continue for the present, to allow one-eighth per cent. commission to parties purchasing for cash.

100,000 pounds first quality DRIED APPLES, in strong, tight barrels.

All the above articles to be delivered in three equal installments on the 1st, 8th, and 15th of February, 1864.

Bidders not able to deliver on these dates can state when they can make their deliveries.

POTATOES—Such quantities as may be required during the month of February, 2,000 pounds to the bushel, in good, ordinary, well-coopered barrels.

Separate proposals, in duplicate, must be made for each article enumerated, and bidders may propose for the whole or any part of each.

Samples of all the articles, except the meats, must be delivered with the proposals and referred to therein. Samples of Corn Meal, Rice, Teas, Sugar, Salt, Pepper and Dried Apples must be in neat boxes of cabboard or tin, fully labeled, and not in paper parcels.

A printed copy of this advertisement must be attached to each proposal, and the proposals must be specific in complying precisely with all the terms. Each bid, to have consideration, must contain the written guaranty of two responsible persons, as follows:

"We, the undersigned, hereby guaranty that, should all or any part of the above bid be accepted, it shall be duly fulfilled according to its true purport and conditions; also that a written contract, with bonds to the amount of one-fourth of the value of the stores proposed to be furnished, shall be executed if required.

The seller's name, place of business, and the date of purchase, as well as the name of contents, with gross, tare and net weights and shipping marks, to be hereafter designated, must be plainly marked on every package. All other old marks must be obliterated. All boxes to be strapped with green hickory straps.

Certificates of inspection by professional packers, or inspectors, other than the party furnishing the provisions, will be required for all the meats, certifying on the part of the seller their present quality and condition, and the immediately preceding inspection. The meats will also be examined and passed upon by Robert P. Getty, inspector on the part of the United States.

The flour will be inspected at the date of delivery, and compared with the retained samples, by Henry Whields, President of the Association of Flour Inspectors, whose certificate will be required.

All the stores will be carefully inspected before their delivery, and compared with the retained samples. Returns of weight, signed by a Professional Public Weigher, must be furnished whenever required.

Payment, as heretofore, to be made in such funds as may be furnished by the United States.

Contractors are expected to hold their goods, without expense to the United States, until required for shipment.

Blanks for Proposals will be furnished at this office, which must be inclosed in an envelope, addressed to the undersigned, and indorsed "Proposals for Subsistence Stores."

Department of Western Virginia, Headquarters at Cumberland.
Department of Washington, Headquarters at Washington.
Department of St. Mary's, Headquarters at Point Lookout.
Department of Virginia and North Carolina, Headquarters at Fort Monroe.
Department of the South, Headquarters at Hilton Head.
And such other Hospitals as may be established upon the Texas coast.

Proposals will be made according to the following form:

PROPOSALS FOR ICE.

(RESIDENCE AND DATE.)

The undersigned proposes to furnish daily, or otherwise, (as determined by the Medical Director,) the best quality of ice to such hospitals in the Department of ——, and in such quantities as the Medical Director of this Department may order, at the following price per hundred pounds, namely:

The ice to be subject to the approval of the Surgeon in charge of each hospital, who will receipt for the correct amount delivered.

Payment to be made on duplicate bills, certified to by the Medical Director of this Department.

As a guaranty of the faithful performance of the above agreement, should the contract be awarded to me, I will enter into bonds in the sum of $5,000. I also append to the inclosed form of guaranty the names of guarantors, certified by the Clerk of the nearest District Court, or the United States District Attorney.

FORM OF GUARANTY.

We, ——, of the county of ——, and State of ——, and ——, of the county of ——, and State of ——, do hereby guarantee that —— is able to fulfill the contract in accordance with the terms of his proposition, and that should his proposition be accepted he will at once enter into contract in accordance with the terms of said proposition, and we are prepared to become his securities.

[Sig.]
[Sig.]

Certificate of the Clerk of —— District Court, or United States District Attorney.

Bidders must conform strictly to the above form of proposal, or their bids will be rejected.

An oath of allegiance to the United States Government must necessarily accompany the bid.

Bidders may be present in person when the Proposals are opened.

The contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible party or parties, who will be duly notified, by mail or otherwise, that their bid is accepted, and they will immediately proceed to enter into contract, under bonds to the amount of $5,000. Bonds to be properly certified to.

The Post-office address of the parties proposing must be distinctly written upon the Proposal.

Proposals must be addressed to HENRY JOHNSON, M. S. K., U. S. A., and Acting Medical Purveyor, Washington, D. C., and marked, "Proposal for Ice."

The Medical Purveyor reserves to himself the right to reject any or all bids deemed unsuitable.

HENRY JOHNSON,
M. S. K., U. S. A., and Acting Medical Purveyor.

N. B.—Printed forms of above Proposals can be had by application to this office.

Information as to the location, capacity and about the amount of ice required by the hospitals will be given by application to the Medical Director of each of these Departments.

SEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED by the school officers of the XVIth Ward, at the office of the Clerk of the Board of Education, corner of Grand and Elm sts., until Monday, the 1stday of February, 1864, at 12 o'clock, noon, for the erection and completion of a new school-house, including the steam-heating apparatus, to be built on the four lots of ground known as Nos. 100, 102, 104 and 106 West 20th-st., in said Ward. Plans and specifications for said school-house, including steam-heating apparatus, can be seen at the office of the Superintendent of School Buildings, No. 94 Crosby-st. Proposals must state the estimate for each branch of the work separately, and be indorsed, "Proposals for mason work," "Proposals for carpenter work," "Proposals for painting," and "Proposals for heating." Proposals for heating must be accompanied with accurate drawings and descriptions of the apparatus intended to be furnished, otherwise they will be rejected. Two responsible and approved sureties will be required from each successful bidder, and no proposal will be considered in which no securities are named. The school officers of the Ward reserve the right to reject any or all of the proposals offered, if deemed for the public interest to do so.

PROPOSALS FOR FORAGE.

CHIEF QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON DEPOT, Dec. 8, 1863.

SEALED PROPOSALS are invited by the undersigned for supplying the United States Quartermaster's Department, at Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Md., Alexandria and Fort Monroe, Va., or either of these places, with Hay, Corn, Oats and Straw.

Bids will be received for the delivery of 5,000 bushels of corn or oats, and 50 tons of hay or straw, and upward.

Bidders must state at which of the above-named points they propose to make deliveries, and the rates at which they will make deliveries thereat, the quantity of each article proposed to be delivered, the time when said deliveries shall be commenced, and when to be completed.

The price must be written out in words on the bids.

Corn to be put up in good stout sacks, of about two bushels each. Oats in like sacks, of about three bushels each. The sacks to be furnished without extra charge to the Government. The hay and straw to be securely baled.

The particular kind or description of oats, corn, hay or straw, proposed to be delivered must be stated in the proposals.

All the articles offered under the bids herein invited, will be subject to a rigid inspection by the Government Inspector before being accepted.

Contracts will be awarded from time to time to the lowest responsible bidder, as the interest of the Government may require, and payment will be made when the whole amount contracted for shall have been delivered and accepted.

The bidder will be required to accompany his proposal with a guarantee, signed by two responsible persons, that in case his bid is accepted, he or they will, within ten days thereafter, execute the contract for the same, with good and sufficient sureties, in a sum equal to the amount of the contract, to deliver the forage proposed in conformity with the terms of this advertisement; and in case the said bidder should fail to enter into the contract, they to make good the difference between the offer of said bidder and the next lowest responsible bidder, or the person to whom the contract may be awarded.

The responsibility of the guarantors must be shown by the official certificate of a United States District-Attorney, Collector of Customs, or any other officer under the United States Government, or responsible person known at this office.

All bidders will be duly notified of the acceptance or rejection of their proposals.

The full name and Post-office address of each bidder must be legibly written in the proposal.

Proposals must be addressed to Brigadier-General D. H. Rucker, Chief Depot Quartermaster, Washington, D. C., and should be plainly marked "Proposals for Forage."

Bonds, in a sum equal to the amount of the contract, signed by the contractor and both of his guarantors, will be required of the successful bidder or bidders upon signing the contract.

Blank forms of bids, guarantees, and bonds, may be obtained upon application at this office.

MUSICAL.

CHICKERING & SONS,
MANUFACTURERS OF GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT PIANO-FORTES, No. 652 BROADWAY.—The superiority of these instruments has of late been amply demonstrated by the voluntary testimony of the foremost artists of the day, who claim for them excellencies of tone and workmanship hitherto unobtained by any other makers.

Mr. GOTTSCHALK'S constant use of the NEW SCALE CHICKERING GRAND PIANO-FORTES has severely tested their musical qualities, and resulted in establishing the justice of the very flattering estimation in which they are held.

STEINWAY & SONS'
GOLD MEDAL GRAND AND SQUARE PIANOS are now considered the best in Europe as well as this country, having received the first Prize Medal at the World's Exhibition in London, 1862.

The principal reason why the Steinway Pianos are superior to all others, is, that the firm is composed of five practical pianoforte makers, (father and four sons,) who invent all their own improvements, and under whose personal supervision every part of the instrument is manufactured. Warerooms, Nos. 82 and 84 Walker-st., New-York.

RAVEN & BACON,
Manufacturers of Grand and Square Piano-fortes,
Warerooms No. 135 Grand-st., near Broadway, New-York.

The long experience and the many facilities we possess enable us to produce instruments unsurpassed by any other establishment. Our personal attention is given to the construction, improvement and introduction of all essential changes that may be required to make a perfect piano-forte. Purchasers are invited to call and examine our large assortment of pianos, which we are now offering on favorable terms. Descriptive circulars sent by mail.

Rebel Preparations for the Spring Campaign.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

NEWS FROM RICHMOND—REBEL PREPARATIONS FOR THE SPRING CAMPAIGN.

An intelligent printer, who arrived to-day from Richmond by underground line, states that the rebels are straining every nerve to recruit their armies, and pushing into the field every male capable of bearing arms—even boys of 16 and old men of 65. They impress, too, into the service, all horses they can find, and give formal receipts for them. He says, too, the rebel Government will astonish us in the Spring with the number and effectiveness of its troops. LEE's army, we understand, has not received many reinforcements, but JOHNSTON's army in the Southwest is being heavily augmented by conscription. He thinks there is no doubt that the rebels will soon consent to an exchange of prisoners, as they want their men back in the field, and our prisoners are a burden to them.

The construction of the iron-clads at Richmond has been abandoned. The iron which was intended to be used in their construction has been sent to Charleston and Savannah, to complete several iron-clads which are being built there. A universal feeling of terror and despondency pervades the South, and it is with difficulty that the Government is able to stem the current of popular feeling setting in against it.

THE RESTORATION OF ARKANSAS.

The Arkansas Delegation had an interview with the President this afternoon, and gave him their views in reference to the policy to be pursued to bring that State back into the Union. The delegation urged the appointment of Col. ROBINSON as Governor. They said that they will have the State back into the Union within three months, if they are justly sustained by the Government. President LINCOLN promised to give them a written answer to-morrow. The delegation are confident that they will get all they ask for.

PREMIUM FOR RECRUITING DISCONTINUED.

The Secretary of War has ordered the discontinuance of the payment of a premium of two dollars to or for accepted recruits for volunteer regiments. No payments of this premium to veteran volunteers, or recruits for volunteer regiments, will in future be paid.

THE LAW OF RECEPTIONS.

The Republican thus correctly publishes the Law of Receptions: The receptions of each of the Cabinet Ministers are generally about semi-monthly, and those whom they desire to attend are invited by card. The Speakers are every Friday evening, and no cards of invitation are issued. Members and Officers of Congress, and of the Government, their families and friends, and the friends and acquaintances of the Speaker and his family, are the excepted guests. The President's receptions are every other Tuesday evening, and the attendance of all his constituents is expected without cards of invitation, limited, of course, to the capacity of the White House, which, however, holds an immense number. The usual hours for these evening receptions are from 8½ to 11 P. M. Mrs. LINCOLN has a matinée Saturdays, from 1 to 3 P. M., at which the President when his public duties permit, and to this, also, no cards are issued. We understand, also, that the families of the Cabinet Ministers, and of the Speaker are at home to receive calls Wednesdays.

NOT ADMITTED TO SEATS IN THE HOUSE.

The Committee on Elections have decided against the claims of JOSEPH SEGAR, of Virginia, and FIELDS, of Louisiana, to seats in the House.

GEN. BUTLER AGAIN IN WASHINGTON.

Gen. BUTLER arrived here to-day from Fortress Monroe, on business connected with the exchange of prisoners. He had interviews with the Secretary of War and Gen. HALLECK. He will see the President to-morrow.

THE LIEUTENANT-GENERALCY.

The House Military Committee has decided to report the bill creating the office of Lieutenant-General. Notice was given in the Committee room by some of the members that they would oppose the bill if either Gen. GRANT or Gen. HALLECK's name was inserted in it during its passage; the first, because he cannot be spared from the field, and the second for very different reasons.

DISMISSED FROM THE ARMY.

Capt. W. W. WHITE, Provost-Marshal of the Eighteenth Pennsylvania District, Williamsport, has been dismissed the service, and arrested and lodged in the Old Capitol Prison, for alleged frauds in the business of his office.

Second Lieut. CHARLES FRAZIER, Fifth New-York cavalry, by order of Brigadier Lockwood, commanding the Middle Department, has been dismissed the service for unofficerlike conduct and violation of military discipline.

Col. JOSEPH GERHARDT, Forty-sixth New-York Volunteers, and Second-Lieut. JOHN K. TUFMAN, of the same regiment, have been dismissed the service.

CLOTHING ACCOUNTS.

It is ordered by the War Department that, in the settlement of the clothing accounts of volunteers, whose periods of service have been less than one year, they shall be entitled to the following credits for the different periods of service, viz.: three months' service, $23 93; six months' service, $35 30; nine months' service, $40 34.

THE PRESIDENT'S DINNER PARTY.

The President gives his first dinner party on Thursday.

THE WINNEBAGO LANDS.

It is rumored that the Secretary of the Interior has cancelled the sale of the Winnebago trust lands, and ordered a new sale.

NOMINATIONS SENT IN.

The President to-day sent in the following names of New-York officers for confirmation:

Assistant Quartermasters, with the Rank of Captain—Chas. J. Bulkley, Henson A. Thomas, Ernest Peugnet, Edward J. Strong, Henry C. Matteson, Nathaniel S. Dodge, David O. Dewolf, Albert M. Bradshaw, J. W. Schenck, Chas. B. Chittenden, Richard B. Lock, Gilbert M. Musteed, Jno. F. Coulter, C. M. Levy.

Commissaries of Subsistence, with the rank of Captain—Edward Wright, Thomas W. G. Fry, George M. Weir, Jno. J. Shaw, Frederick W. Clems, Dewitt C. Comings, Chas. Hall, Wm. R. Wasson, James V. Lawrence, Isaiah R. Clark, Edwin Henry.

Additional Paymasters.—George Truesdale, James Thornton, Edward J. Mallet, Selden E. Marvin, Charles R. Butterfield, Chas. J. Hoyt.

Assistant Adjutant-Generals, with Rank of Captain.—First Lieut. S. M. Morgan, Eighty-sixth regiment; First Lieut. Lewis T. Barney, Sixty-eighth; Lieut. Chas. H. Granes, Fortieth regiment.

Assistant Surgeons.—Chas. Smart, vice Cruvel, resigned.

Ordnance Department.—Thomas M. Deane to be Military Storekeeper, vice Vaughn, resigned. Col. Geo. D. Ramsay to be Chief of Ordnance, with the rank of Brigadier-General, Sept. 15, 1862, vice Ripley, retired.

APPOINTMENT.

Capt. C. B. Fowler, of New-York, has been appointed Assistant Adjutant-General, and is assigned to duty under Gen. HALLECK.

NAVAL PROMOTION.

Acting Ensign Geo. F. Wimsley, of the U. S. steamer Marblehead, has been promoted to the grade of Acting Master in the navy, for gallant conduct in face of the enemy.

SURGEON RESTORED.

Asst. Surgeon SIMON C. SANGER, Sixth New-York cavalry, dismissed from the service by special orders of the War Department, November 20, 1863, has been restored to his former position, provided the vacancy has not been filled.

DISCOVERY OF LEAD DEPOSITS IN NEW-MEXICO.

The Secretary of the Interior, on Saturday, received a letter from Albuquerque, New-Mexico, stating that immense deposits of lead had recently been discovered in that vicinity. The ore is represented to be very rich, and it is believed is impregnated with gold and silver.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

GUERRILLA ATTACK AT FAIRFAX COURT-HOUSE.

The Star says the following dispatch has been received at headquarters:

FAIRFAX COURT-HOUSE, Monday, Jan. 18.

Fifteen or twenty rebels attacked the pickets at Flint Hill this morning, but were driven off by a volley from our men. A few guerrillas have appeared both last night and to-night, in the vicinity of our lines. Parties have been sent out to try and pick them up.

REIMBURSEMENT OF NEW-YORK.

The bill introduced by FERNANDO WOOD to-day, directs that the Secretary of the Treasury, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, pay to the Comptroller of the City of New-York, or to his duly authorized agents, the cost, charges and expenses properly incurred by the corporation of the said City, for enrolling, subsisting, supplying, arming and equipping the troops employed in aiding to suppress the present insurrection against the United States, to be settled upon proper vouchers, to be filed and passed upon by the proper accounting officer of the Treasury.

A REFUGEE WITH PLENTY OF SPECIE.

ISAAC LIEBMAN, who claims to be a Union refugee from Wilmington, N. C., was taken from the Leonardtown coach yesterday, while on his way to this city, and committed to the Old Capitol Prison by Provost-Marshal TODD. The prisoner when arrested had upon his person $700 in gold, mostly in $20 pieces, $400 in State money, and two gold watches. LIEBMAN states that when he was endeavoring to make his way through Virginia, he was overhauled by a Confederate recruiting officer, but was let off on presenting his captor with a gold watch and chain.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Naval Bill, as reported to-day from the Committee of Ways and Means, appropriates for the ordinary operations of the navy proper, about $97,000,000, in addition to the usual appropriations for the several bureaus of the department, and for navy-yards, docks, and miscellaneous expenditures. The pay of officers, seamen and engineers requires $19,423,000, and for construction and repairs $20,800,000. For armor-plated vessels $3,880,000; hemp and other materials $700,000; fuel $3,840,000; equipment $3,000,000; provisions $6,416,000; construction and repairs of machinery $20,312,000; surgeon's appliances and necessaries $8,300,000; navigation apparatus and supplies $226,000.

THE NEW-YORK COURTS.

The bill of Senator MORGAN, of New-York, presented to-day, to facilitate proceedings in admiralty and other judicial proceedings on the part of New-York, contemplates the separation of Kings, Queens, Suffolk, and Richmond Counties, and constitute a separate district, to be called the Eastern District of New-York. The effect of the bill is not to impair the local, territorial or other jurisdiction of the Circuit Court for the Southern District of New-York, and appeals and writs of error may be taken from the Eastern to the Court for the Southern District of New-York; the Eastern to have concurrent jurisdiction with the Southern District Court over the waters within the counties above specified, and all seizures made therein. The salaries of the Judges of the Eastern and Southern District Courts are fixed at $6,000. Cases of prizes shall have preferences over other causes upon any calendar of the court; a term of the court to be held on the first Wednesday of every month.

THE CALIFORNIA MAILS.

The Postmaster-General has invited bids to reduce the running time four days from the Atlantic to the Pacific, for the conveyance of the letter mail only, as well as the entire mail.

THE DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENCE.

Secretary SEWARD, in a letter to Minister ADAMS, dated the 6th of October last, as appears from the published correspondence, says: "The United States do insist and must continue to insist that the British Government is justly responsible for the damages which the peaceful, law-abiding citizens of the United States sustain by the depredations of the Alabama, that vessel having been built and fitted out in British waters. The Secretary cannot, therefore, instruct Mr. ADAMS to refrain from pressing the claims which he now has in his hands."

APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED.

The Senate, to-day, confirmed the following nominations of the President:

LEWIS C. GUNN, of California, to be Collector of Customs for the District of Puget Sound, Territory of Washington;

CHARLES JAMES, Collector of Customs for the District of San Francisco;

SEBASTIAN S. MARBLE, Collector of Customs for the District of Waldoboro, Me.;

WILLIAM E. WOODHOUSE, Surveyor of Customs for the Port of Havre de Grace, Maryland;

H. M. MILLER, Appraiser of Merchandise for the Port of San Francisco;

CHARLES G. PARSONS, of Maine, Consul for the Island of Trinidad;

ISRAEL WASHBURNE, Jr., Collector of Customs for the District of Portland and Falmouth, Me.;

HENRY M. HAMERSLY and JAMES W. DENNIS, Third Lieutenants in the Revenue Cutter service.

Mr. FESSENDEN, of Maine, (Union,) reported a bill from the Finance Committee, empowering the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the compensation of such inspectors of the Customs as are entitled to increased pay, not exceeding one dollar per day.

PAYMENT OF PERUVIAN CLAIMS.

Mr. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, (Union,) presented a bill for the satisfaction of the Peruvian claimants appropriating about $44,000 in silver.

THANKS TO NAVAL OFFICERS.

Mr. HICKS, of Maryland, (Union,) reported back from the Naval Committee resolutions of thanks to Commodore CADWALADER, RINGGOLD, and the officers and crew of the steamer Sabine.

Mr. MORGAN, of New-York, (Union,) from the Naval Committee, reported a resolution of thanks to Commodore DUPONT.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE ADMIRALTY COURTS.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill to facilitate proceedings in Courts of Admiralty, and other judicial proceedings in the Courts of New-York, and for other purposes. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

THE OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the vote requiring an additional oath from Senators.

Mr. BAYARD, of Delaware, (Dem.,) addressed the Senate at length in opposition to the measure. As he was the only Senator who had not taken the oath prescribed by the resolution, he presumed that it was intended to operate personally on him, notwithstanding he had performed the functions of a Senator since the adoption of the rule, and that other Senators had been allowed to do so without having the additional oath administered to them. The Senate was the only body to judge of the qualifications of its own members under the Constitution, and no judicial act of either House was valid to expel a member who had the qualifications prescribed by the Constitution. The Act of 1862 was repugnant to several provisions of the Constitution. It prescribed a new oath for a legislator previous to entering on his duties. The Federal Government was one of specially delegated and enumerated powers, and the Senate could not exercise powers not delegated by the States to it, under the Constitution. The Constitution prescribed the form of the oath which Representatives should take. He would make no captious opposition to the oath in any form that Congress might prescribe, though he preferred the simple form of the Constitution. He thought the second oath prescribed nothing necessary for the due qualification of Senators not contained in the old oath. As to the clause referring to mental reservations, an act for perjury would hold against a Senator or other person holding such. This oath was a variation from the oath required in the law of 1790, as it was retrospective in its character. The Constitutional oath appealed to the conscience alone. The precedent set in the establishment of this rule would be pregnant of evil. It would require a purgation of all offences against the laws. The power here proposed would be unlimited and extend to all offences. It might require a Representative to support the act of the Executive or Congress. Though he believed it to be diametrically opposed to the spirit and letter of the Constitution, he objected to the rule, not so much for the object it sought to effect, but for the exercise of the unlimited power it conferred. One precedent would be followed by another, until anarchy ensued, and a free Government would be followed by an unlimited despotism. He showed that there was no parallel to the proposed legislation to be found in any of the English courts; and he quoted from various English authorities. He hoped the guarantees of the Constitution would not be idly frittered away, and the only barrier against the approach of despotic power abandoned. This law would inflict a punishment upon him as a consequence of his silence. It would seek to ascertain facts in a manner unknown to the common law and Constitution by a forced confession of guilt. This rule was contrary to the spirit and letter of the Constitution, and held a man guilty for refusing to answer an indictment for a capital crime framed in a manner not authorized by that instrument. Mr. BAYARD proceeded in an elaborate argument to controvert the proposition of Mr. TRUMBULL that a member of Congress was a civil officer. In conclusion, he said his understanding of the word loyalty was a steadfast adherence to the organic law as defined in the Constitution, and an ardent support of the great guarantees for the maintenance of the principles of civil and religious liberty which it was the object of its framers to promote and perpetuate. If the term loyalty meant anything but adherence to the spirit and letter of the Constitution, he would wish to be considered as disloyal; and when that was so decided he would meet the issue as became his dignity as an American Senator.

Mr. COLLAMER rose to reply to Mr. BAYARD, but gave way until 3 o'clock to-morrow, on motion of Mr. SUMNER that the Senate go into Executive session.

Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

REMOVAL OF DR. WETHERILL.

On motion of Mr. ORTH, of Indiana, (Union,) a Select Committee was ordered to be appointed to inquire into the facts attending the removal of Dr. WETHERILL, the chemist of the Agricultural Department. He said, in order to test an improvement in gunpowder, the President appointed Dr. WETHERILL for one month. Not having concluded his investigation at the termination of that time, it was extended. On reporting the results, he found he was discharged. Dr. WETHERILL is purely a scientific man and has never received one cent for his services.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE NAVAL SERVICE.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported a bill making appropriations for the naval service for the year ending with June, 1865.

The bill was made the order of the day for Thursday.

THE CONFISCATION ACT.

The House resumed the consideration of the joint resolution amendatory of the Confiscation Act.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, (Union,) expressed his anxiety to get a vote to-morrow, as no other reports can be made from the Committee until this resolution is out of the way.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) said at least a dozen gentlemen on the opposition side desired to speak. They should have an opportunity to discuss the measure.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) remarked that he and others would vote against the resolution in its present form without amendment. It was worse than the original bill.

Mr. WILSON said if the gentleman and his friends were determined to defeat the resolution, the responsibility would rest on them.

Mr. BLISS, of Ohio, (Dem.,) expressed his views on the subject of confiscation, entering into an argument to show that while the Constitution authorized the declaration of the punishment of treason and legislation against the life of the guilty, and the forfeiture of estates, it did not justify forfeiture beyond the life of the party. He was constrained to believe that what is claimed to be an improved interpretation of the Constitution is but a wandering from common sense, which should govern legislative proceedings. A new method of doing a forbidden thing did not help the dilemma.

Mr. BOUTWELL, of Massachusetts, (Union,) in his argument, said the majority here and in the country will execute justice while they distribute mercy. He understood the resolution before the House to make it the duty of the Courts to administer the penalties prescribed by the act of 1862. Within the limits of the Constitution, the framers of which gave Congress the power to declare the punishment of treason, there is full, complete and unlimited authority, but with the absolute prohibition that no attainder of treason shall work of blood. He was for sustaining any measure which shall provide for the forfeiture of the estates of persons convicted of treason, whether the estates are of goods or of lands.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, on the bill amendatory of the Excise Laws.

Mr. LOVEJOY, of Illinois, (Union,) offered an amendment, changing the tax now proposed on spirits from 60 cents to $1, and argued that the tax should be permanent, in order to prevent speculation.

FERNANDO WOOD, of New-York, (Dem.,) replied, assuming that when peace and harmony shall be restored, the excise tax will cease. The amendment of the gentleman was based on the argument that the war will be of long duration. If the policy of the Administration was to be carried out, the gentleman might well commence legislation for a long war, for if the rebel Government had had control of the action of the Administration, it could not better have aided the rebel cause than gentlemen here were now doing. He opposed the amendment.

Mr. GRINNELL, of Iowa, (Union,) moved to tax spirits $1 20. He said whisky for drinking purposes was vicious and unnecessary. He could conceive why the gentleman from New-York (WOOD) should oppose the increase, for it had been said the groggeries are the nurseries of Democracy. The verdict of the people was against the gentleman, for we have a President who proposes to give freedom to the country by putting down the rebellion. By reducing the consumption of the damnable stuff, and keeping it away from the army, he believed the war would sooner be brought to a close.

Mr. CRISFIELD, of New-York, (Dem.,) said that when the gentleman expressed his desire for a sober army, he perhaps alluded to Chancellorsville. The history of Generals intoxicated is a curse to the country. Fanaticism would deprive the poor man of a simple necessity of life. He briefly argued against the imposition of heavier burdens.

Mr. KELLY, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) said if the rebels did not receive encouragement from gentlemen on this floor, we would before one year crush out the rebellion. He denied, as had been remarked, that gaunt want and poverty stalk our streets, and asserted that our country never enjoyed greater prosperity than now. He, for nine years, had presided over a Court having criminal jurisdiction, and if it had not been for the corner groceries, the schoolhouses of modern Democracy, his judicial duties would have been reduced eight or nine-tenths.

Mr. CHANDLER asked whether the gentleman was not elected by Democrats.

Mr. KELLY replied that he being too pure for their purposes, the Democrats refused to take him up, but the people did, and elected him by a vote which no other local officer ever received in the city and county of Philadelphia.

Mr. RANDALL, of Pennsylvania, (Dem.,) asked Mr. KELLY whether he did not pledge himself to abide by the Democratic Convention, and then repudiate its action?

Mr. KELLY would refer his colleague to the Fourth Ward groceries. In the course of his remarks he said, in laying taxation he would, while raising the tax on bad whisky, also increase the price on wines and brandies.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) opposed the pending amendments. Instead of increasing, they would decrease the revenue, and to that extent deprive the Government of the means of supporting the public burdens. In his younger days, as a member of the Legislature, he had seen that stringent laws to suppress intemperance had failed of their purpose, and the most effective means of reform was moral suasion.

An amendment was offered making the tax on spirits fifty cents per gallon. Rejected.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, (Union,) said the sixty cents per gallon proposed by the Committee of Ways and Means would yield more revenue than an enlargement of the tax. Sixty cents was the utmost verge of tax spirits could bear as a revenue measure.

Without coming to any conclusion on the subject, the Committee rose.

FERNANDO WOOD introduced a bill to reimburse the City of New-York for calling out troops to suppress the rebellion. Adjourned.

RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. FIELDS introduced resolutions calling upon Boards of Supervisors throughout the State to meet in special meeting and ascertain and report the amount of county, city, town and village indebtedness incurred for the war.

The resolution was laid on the table. Adjourned.

SYNOPSIS OF BILLS, RESOLUTIONS AND REPORTS.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

Mr. GREEN's bill, declaring certain offences to be embezzlement, provides as follows:

SECTION 1. Any person who shall wrongfully and corruptly convert to his own use any public money or property, or any money or property received or held by him in an official capacity, shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and punished the same as in other cases of embezzlement of a like amount.

SEC. 2. Any officer, agent or servant of any corporation, who shall wrongfully and corruptly convert to his own use any of the corporate money or property, shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and punished as in other cases of embezzlement of a like amount.

NEPTUNE STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

Mr. BENEDICT's bill to incorporate the above Company provides that Wm. P. Williams, Nathaniel B. Palmer, Geo. S. Howland, E. C. Williams and Frank Wight are made a body corporate, by the name and style of "The Neptune Steamship Company," and they may purchase and possess five or more steamships or steamers, and such other property as the Company may deem advantageous to enable them to run said steamships from any place or places in this State, or the adjacent waters of this State, or the Eastern or Southern Coast of the United States.

The capital stock of said Corporation to be $600,000, to be divided into shares of $100 each, and that said capital stock can be increased to $1,200,000. No dividends to be declared except upon actual earnings. The affairs of the Corporation to be under the control of not less than five nor more than thirteen Directors.

The Company to have the exclusive and entire control of Pier No. 27 North River, foot of Robinson-street, together with the bulkheads on the north and south sides of said pier during the continuance of their lease. The corporation to exist twenty years.

WAR EXPENDITURES.

Mr. FIELD's introduced the following, which was laid on the table and ordered printed:

Whereas, The people of this State have, independent of voluntary private gifts and the action of the State Government, contributed very largely, through their municipal and local governments, for the support of the war; and,

Whereas, It is important that the evidences of such patriotic contributions should be preserved in case of any adjustment being proposed hereafter, whether among the several States or among the several counties and municipalities; and

Whereas, It is desirable, for many reasons, that the aggregates of the contributions of the people of this State in support of the Government in its efforts to suppress this rebellion shall be known; therefore

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors in each County in this State be and they are hereby directed to report to the Senate forthwith:

1. The total amount of outstanding indebtedness against their counties.

2. The total amount of outstanding indebtedness against every town in their county.

3. The amount of such indebtedness in the several cases which has been incurred, not for local purposes, but for the purpose of supporting the General Government in its efforts to put down the present rebellion.

4. The amount of indebtedness in the several cases which, although not actually outstanding, has been up to the time of the report (under these resolutions) authorized to be incurred by the several counties, villages, cities and towns.

Resolved, That a special meeting of the Board of Supervisors in each county in the State is hereby requested to be held within five days from the time the Chairman or Clerk thereof shall receive a copy of the above for the purpose of making the report herein required.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CANAL APPRAISERS.

The annual report of this body shows that the number of claims filed during the year ending Sept. 30, was 149, and the amount claimed $154,313 22.

From Jan. 1, 1851, to Sept. 30, 1863, the total number of claims against the State filed for the action of the Appraisers was 4,364, on which was claimed $7,487,047 91.

As near as can be ascertained, the number of claims on all the canals, on file Sept. 30, 1863, and still unheard, is 555, on which is claimed $750,000.

The number of awards made during the past fiscal year were 305, on which was claimed $676,938; allowed thereon, $227,612 96.

The total amount awarded by the Appraisers on all the canals of this State from the commencement of their construction in 1817 to Sept. 30, 1863, is $4,038,454 79, of which sum the Erie Canal Enlargement has received $2,613,194 01, and the other canals the balance, $1,425,260 78.
